Dear Hazel:
Bet you are glad
school is over, don't blame
you a little bit.
Love Lynora Robeson '29

Hazel, you've been a real student in French, and I hope you have lots of luck in Sr. H. Clifford

You're lots O'fun Hazel & am glad that I have and will know you. Keep up the old pep and you're bound to get by Big

HI STOUGHTON'S

FOREWORD

As the theme of this Yahara tries to depict accurately the development of our city, the events contributing to its progress, and even those hindering it, so we hope we have pictured accurately in the following pages the life of the past school year with all of its laughs and even its sorrows ~

DEDICATION

To

Luke Stoughton

The Founder of the City of Stoughton

As a tribute to the man whose vision, industry, and integrity enabled him to found our community on such an enduring basis as to carry through to us the privilege of obtaining our education in this high school, we, the Senior Class of 1929, have respectfully dedicated this fourteenth volume of The Yahara to Luke Stoughton ~ ~

Educational growth like city growth is dependent upon continuous development. A city may have passed from the period of enterprising frontiersmen to the stage of contented retirement. Attending the growth and development of all life, individually or collectively, there is the maturing process. The fully matured animal or ripened fruit ceases to develop. Many of our revered institutions and pioneer communities have been so completely matured that contentment supplants progress. The youth of today matures very rapidly and very early. This early maturing progress frequently relinquishes the motive of sustained improvement. Instruction stimulates and guides the learner, but only effort and study develop the individual. Massage cannot be substituted for experience. Neither can instruction be substituted for study in attaining an education. Graduation should not be allowed to adjourn our efforts of growth lest we be like the prematurely ripened fruit.

S. H. Berg

This yearbook has been dedicated to the spirit of the pioneer. It is a fitting ideal for an outstanding group of young people. This spirit is essential for every generation in every forward looking nation. It enabled our grandfathers to conquer a continent. It stimulated our fathers to delve into the mysteries of the physical sciences and to bequeath to us a marvelous machine age. Our generation must utilize this spirit to make man master of his machines rather than vice versa.

Our present pressing social problems—such as abolition of war, law enforcement, the capital and labor strife—cannot be solved by an "it never has been done" attitude. All those noble qualities of vision, courage, creativeness, faith, strength and determination—which embrace the spirit of the pioneer—must be called into play. The need for the pioneer in America has not passed.

The best of luck to my advisee —
Helen May Williams

Hazel - It's funny but I can always tell when you're going by the house.
You're either running or I can tell by your walk, — believe it or not.

Heaps of luck

Mary N.

Hazel -

I hear you're having a good time at the lake. Hope you continue to do so.

We need to conjugate quite well in English - don't we? Well, hope we can put most each other next year.

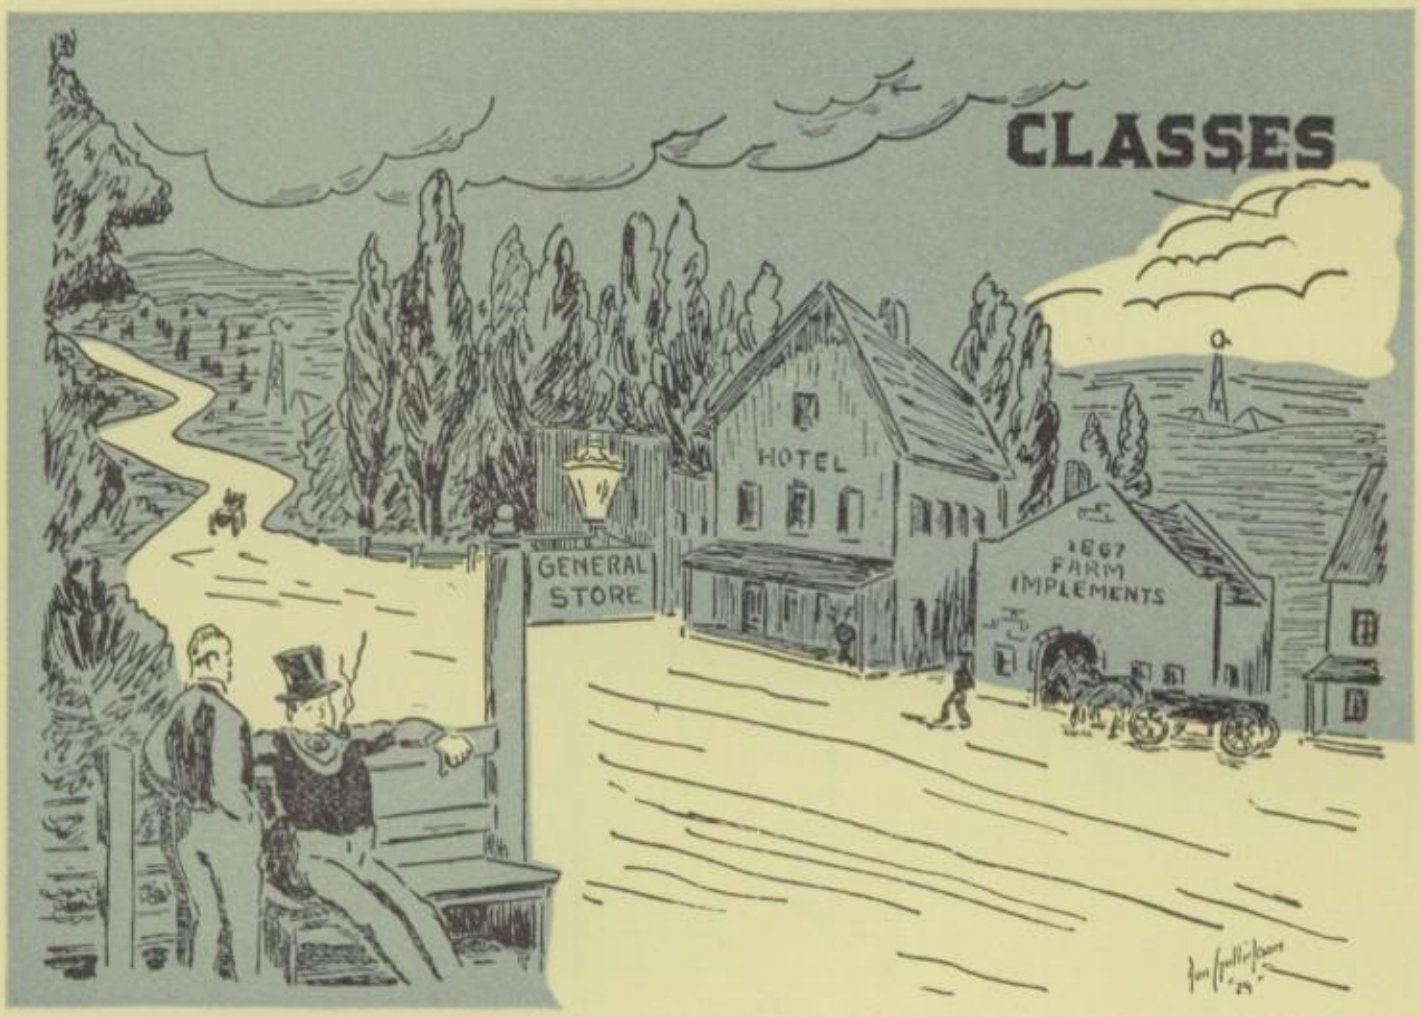
We're glad to have been able to wear your pajamas dress.

I hope to see you more often.

Love,

Lillian H.

Main Street in the village before the days of modern street construction.



Mr. Stoughton opened a general merchandise store in 1848 for convenience to the people, who, heretofore, had been compelled to go long distances for any article of household necessity. This proved to be a stimulating factor in developing a central community.

Dear Hazel,
Are you having any fun? — I know you are,
did you have fun
Sat. night. Here's
"H"? Just fun I hope. Hope I have fun Wed. night.
Guess you was dancing with

Well Hazel, the career is over.
I hope I'll see you this summer.
Don't indulge in Old Crow.

Class Will of '29

We, the Senior Class of nineteen hundred and twenty-nine of Stoughton High School, being of a sane mind and with a perfectly legitimate and sincere motive in view, do with positive reverence and solemnity bequeath to the Junior Class of 1930 all our earthly claims heretofore entertained on the following principles of divers moral ethics and idealistic qualities of human character.

The aforementioned party may take full and complete possession of the above bequests only when our not-to-be-criticized principal and godfather, Mr. Falk, ceases to refer to our beloved advisor, Mrs. Florence Donahue as Miss Klenert, when addressing the assembly.

We now proceed with the bequests:

1. To Anna Harried, we bequeath Ralph Atkinson's great, big, beautiful feet.

2. Olaf Roe asks that his bombastic bass voice be left to Norris Linderud.

3. Bjarne Romnes leaves his derby and cane to Mahlon Kroener.

4. To Bertha Aslackson we bequeath Harriet Hale's back number of "Whizz Bang."

5. Martha Kvalheim and Hennrika Skaarness leave their knowledge of the deaf and dumb language to Martin Toay and Howard Ehle.

6. To Lars Kaupanger we leave Alf Christenson's powerful physique.

7. Mary Louse Hermanson leaves her "Eat and Grow Thin" volumes to Katherine Alexson and Robert Chase.

8. To Donald Johnson, we leave an old pair of overalls belonging to Malcolm Stogdill.

9. Verna Luraas leaves all her "old flames" to Margaret Nordlie.

10. "Joe" Onsrud leaves a lock of hair and a couple of pansies to Elizabeth Long.

11. Dorothy Anderson bequeaths all her "old lady" parts in school productions to Roberta Smith.

12. To anyone who is honest enough to admit they need them, we bequeath some of Phil Klaesson's brains.

13. Mary Bjoin bequeaths 2,000 gum wrappers to be used as a first payment on a Shetland pony, to Wilbur Keegan.

14. Dorothy Hatzinger leaves all of her "it" to George Schuster.

15. Clarence Yttre bequeaths his extensive vocabulary to Hazel Bratvold.

16. To Harriet Kvalheim and Nancy Christenson, Ruby and Mayre leave their ratings on the Edgerton social register.

17. Mary Hale leaves her love for the 8 o'clock schedule to Gregory Anderson.

18. To Elsie Felland, Clarence Nicholast bequeaths his quiet reserved nature.

19. Garfield and Florence leave a couple of secrets with the study hall clock and Harriet Larson and Henrietta Onsrud wish to make it known that if they have anything that anybody wants, those wishing something may call around and try and get it.

In conclusion, we leave our heartiest congratulations with all members of the school administration with whom we have come in contact. Their broadmindedness and tolerance has been positively remarkable. They have made us what we are today. Wondrous indeed, are their works.

Class Prophecy of '29

The words which follow on this page are thereby placed with one cardinal objective in mind; that being to take you away from our little hamlet on the magic carpet of imagination to that mystic realm of spires and minarets for a brief glimpse into the dark and forboding future. The following came about thus:

Being cast in the role of prophet of the Senior Class by the powers that be, I thrust my fears behind me and with my mission well in mind I left post-haste for the four corners of the earth in search of light into the future.

It was at the court of the Sultan of Persia that my guest was unexpectedly terminated. Here I seized upon the opportunity of gazing into the gracious Sultan's far-famed and all-knowing ball of crystal. As I peered into the magic sphere, unforeseen events appeared before my vision that were wondrous strange. My eyes filled with awe as I beheld my own classmates in their everyday pursuits of twenty years from now. According to the ball, which I wholeheartedly take as being authentic, this is what is to be:

Alf Christenson is editor of a joke magazine; he got his experience on the Yahara.

Bjarne Romnes is a big lawyer. He's knocking the juries dead with his Webster-like oratory.

Inga Sivertson is a cigarette girl in a Chicago Cabaret. They can't resist her vampish methods.

Phil Klaesson is barking out commands at West Point. He is a hard-boiled top sergeant there.

Frank Currier is peddling fish. His herring is of the best grade.

Dorothy Hatzinger is President of the W. C. T. U. Prohibition is here to stay.

Johann Onsrud is a missionary in the Far East. Yes, Dorothy is still with him.

Olga Wigsmoen is an artist's model in New York. Her specialty is Venus.

"Tessa" Halverson is leading a choir in a big church in Boston. Harold reels off a mean hymn.

Ruby and Mayre are teaching school in Edgerton. They like their location very well.

Mathew Gregerson is Champion Flag Pole Sitter of the World. We always knew that Matt would come through.

Mary Bjoin has gone in for dramatics. She's known as "America's Sweetheart."

Clarence Yttre is in jail for selling "phony" oil stock. Clarence's slick ways caused his downfall.

Martha Kvalheim and Henrikka Skaarness are a dancing team in a New York night club. They're said to be a wow.

"Shorty" Nicholas is a teacher in a school for the deaf. He seems to be happy in these quiet surroundings.

Elsie Onsrud has gone in for cattle raising. One of her calves recently copped national honors.

Herman Gjestson has taken Mr. Falk's place as principal of Stoughton High. He makes bad boys mind.

Leobelle Hagen is private secretary to the President. They say the President is always happy when he goes to work.

Harold Gerard has made good as a pitcher with the Yankees. They can't hit 'em when they can't see 'em.

Mary Hale has a job as Fat Lady in a circus. She's attracting thousands.

Harriet Hale is preaching on the evils of modern youth. She has already rescued hundreds of wayward souls.

Boris Schuster is director of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Millie Staff and Beatrice Jensen are conducting a modiste shop on Broadway. They now set the styles in place of Paris.

Malcolm Stogdill and Garfield Thorpe are touring the country. Thorpe is the middleweight champ and Stogdill is his manager.

It was at this point that the crystal becade clouded and being unable to see more I hastened back to my native shores with the precious information which I have disclosed at this time.

Juniors

The never-give-up—do-or-die attitude that prevails in the Junior Class has carried us through another successful year. The Prom was a tremendous success. What more could we ask for?

Of course the greatest asset to our banner year was our most worthy and dependable advisor, Miss Johnson. She not only fulfilled her work as leader but did a great share of the work. We wish to thank her for her whole-hearted co-operation and help.

Our first class meeting was a fast one and we stepped forth with a clean slate. Peter Vea was elected President, and Oscar Olson was elected Vice President. Christine Jenson, a former office holder, did her work as Secretary with ease and also helped with the Treasurer's job. Dorothy Carpenter kept the Treasury books without mishap and we feel that none could have done better. In fact all the officers went at their jobs with the idea they would work for the welfare of the class and with a prestige fitting their jobs.

The first big doing of the year was the class play, given at Christmas time. Miss Gregerson directed the play and she worked hard with us, so that we could have a Prom. We wish to thank her for her generosity in giving her time to the class. The "Youngest" was put on in the Auditorium on December 18th with Ingolf Turmo and Elizabeth Long taking the leading roles, which they did with ease fitting only professionals. The other members of the play were: Constance Olson, John McKercher, James Scott, Anna Harried, Dorothy Carpenter and Ardith Dersch. The play was not what we might term a financial success, because of the fact that it was given near Christmas time and two plays had been given a few weeks ahead of it. The Juniors, never to be disheartened, with matters of money, brought about a scheme which will probably be used in the future for collecting money when in need. They sent for the University Concert Band to come and play at the gym. The Band is composed of seventy members and they played a delightful concert to a very appreciative audience on March 3, 1929.

The time for the Prom at last came. We had been looking forward to it for months. The Spade and Spoon were presented by Philip Klaesson and Harriet Hale to Pete Vea and Josie Harried respectively. Mr. Berg and Mr. Falk and many others gave wonderful speeches and, of course, the dinner and the music was very fine, and not only that, but there was a huge crowd to enjoy it.

Our class not only has done well in extra-curricular activities, but they were well represented in the upper half of the high school in grades. A fine representation of Juniors were present on the football field for practice and there were quite a number of students who won their letters as well. They included: Gregory Anderson, captain for next year, John McKercher, Ingolf Turmo, and Donald Johnson and "Captain" Sveom.

We feel certain that our class has excelled in almost everything. In Scholarship, athletics, in extra-curricular activities and even in the city doings, some members of the class have been seen.

In closing we would like to give a yell for the Junior Class of "30" and a skyrocket for Miss Johnson, our advisor, and a locomotive for good old S. H. S.

Junior Jests

Paul Skinner: "Which are your favorite movie actors?"

Elizabeth Long: "Lon Chaney."

John McKercher at the Courier Hub Office: "Is the editor in?"

Office Boy: "No."

John: "Well, just throw this poem in the waste paper basket for him, will you?"

Don. Johnson, at the clothing store: "I'd like to see something cheap in men's clothing."

Clerk: "Just a moment, I'll call the floor-walker."

Bjarne Romnes: "London is the foggiest city in the world."

Morris Lewis: "But I've been in a foggier place than London."

B. R.: "Where was that?"

M. L.: "I don't know where it was, it was so foggy."

Guide: "We are now going past the oldest ale house in England."

Waldo Larson on his European tour: "Why?"

Malcolm Stogdill: "Didn't I tell you I loved you more than any woman on earth?"

Mary Bjoin: "Yes, but what about all these women aviators?"

Greg. Anderson: "Joe, your engine's smoking."

Joe Onsrud: "'s all right. It's old enough'.'

Robert Palmer (in Rexall Drug Store): "I want a good brand of tooth paste."

Ray Chapin: "Forhan's?"

R. P.: "Naw, fer the teeth."

Sophomores

Boom! The school year 1928 to 1929 began, and we, last year's "Freshies," came back ready to prove ourselves worthy Sophomores. Having surpassed the "green stage" of the "Frosh" and not having attained the indifferent attitude of the Juniors nor the superior attitude of the Seniors, we were in the prime of our career and determined to make the most of our abilities.

Realizing that we could accomplish nothing without first being organized, we elected Harry Kirby, president; Louise Langemo, vice-president; Mildred Onsrud, secretary, and Inez Hanson, treasurer. Then, with Miss Haven "to guide our footsteps," and later Miss Bentson, we were ready to start a "booming year."

Now, after reviewing the events of the past year, we feel that we deserve some credit for our efforts.

In football, Olaf Sundby, Orlin Ausse, and Gerry Halverson were our "bright, shining lights."

Howard Jones and Orlin Ausse proved their worth in basketball.

Our Girls' Basketball team was a "spunky bunch," and, even though they didn't win many games, they never gave up without first putting up a hard fight.

All in all, our class has shown some remarkable athletic prowess.

As for our intellectual abilities—well, never before has a Sophomore class had five of its members on the real Debate Squad! Frederick Henderson, Katherine Halverson, Muriel Larson, Virgie Walling, and Mildred Onsrud represented our class in this activity.

Alfred Olson and Frederick Henderson were chosen as representatives in Oratory; Katherine Halverson and Arline Criddle in Declamatory. Even now we are ready and eager to "cop that cup."

Because "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" we have made it a practise to take part in social activities, also. Therefore, we are well represented in every club in the school.

Row 1—Myrold, L. Johnson, Jacobson, Lally, Norsetter, Jones, Olman, N. Olson, E. Olson, M. Larson.

Sophomores

As the school year draws to a close, although we yearn for vacation, we regret the fact that the end is so near, for it means that never again will we be Sophomores in Stoughton High School.

SOPHOMORE SAPS

Ingolf Turmo: "I could go on dancing with your like this forever."

Katherine Halverson: "Oh, no, you couldn't; you're bound to improve sometime."

Boris Schuster: "What do you think of monogamy?"

Joe Ylvisaker: "Well, personally I prefer walnut or oak."

Philip Klaesson: "You should place your hand over your mouth when you yawn."

Howard Ehle: "What! and get bit?"

Herman Gjestson: "Whence the black eye?"

Fred Rasmussen: "It's like this — I saw a big poster which read, "Murderer Wanted'—"

H. G.: "Yes."

F. R.: "So I went in and applied for the job."

James Scott (rushing up to Louise Langemo breathlessly): "This is my dance, you know."

L. L.: "Oh, really? I thought this was the Junior Prom."

Chet Sundby: "I want some tires."

Salesman: "Balloon tires?"

C. S.: "Naw, automobile tires."

Dignified Senior: "Who are you shoving?"

Glenn Skau: "I dunno, what's your name?"

Row 1—Thorson, Stolen, Vea, Rasmussen, A. Quam, Snyder, Swenson, Pember, Ylvisaker.

Row 2—Romnes, Wake, Simpson, O. Sundby, Young, Thomas, Paulson, Skau.

Row 3—Schoedel, H. Slinde, Rice, Teisberg, M. Slinde, Wikum, Stensvad, Walling, O. Sundby, Roang.

Sophomores

Coach Wilke: "How long have you played quarter back?"

Joe Ylvisaker: "Lessee, lemme figger. I ain't ever played quarter-back. How long is that?"

A dialogue between two Sophomore master-minds: "You're a Canadian. You were born in Canada."

"No, sir! My mother and father were Scotch, so I'm Scotch."

"You were born in Canada. So you are a Canadian even if your parents are Scotch."

Heatedly: "Well, if a cat had kittens in an oven, would you call them biscuits?"

A Sophomore was heard saying these words to an upper classman—

"You have brought disgrace upon me, broken the heart of my mother, and stolen my only sweetheart. But beware! Don't go too far!"

Orro Hoel: "I raise wonderful strawberries."

Orlin Aussie: "Are they really good?"

O. H.: "Absolutely the best. Large, juicy blood-red fruit."

O. O.: "Do you use fertilizer on them?"

O. H.: "No, just cream and sugar."

Typical Sophomore Conversation:

"Got an odd cent with you?"

"Yeh."

"Well, so's a skunk."

A Sophomore makes a remark:

"One of our Freshmen is so dumb he thinks Helen of Troy worked in a Laundry."

Rayda Nicholas: "I wonder why Oscar jumped in the river?"

Muriel Larson: "I guess there was a woman at the bottom of it."

Freshmen

The Freshmen first existed in 1913,
They lived happily and kept very clean.
Except for a few they were very bright,
But now to look at them is surely a sight.

Some are fat, others are lean,
Some are kind, others mean;
Some are tall, some are short,
They are really of all sorts.

Some are from the country,
Others from town,
Some look very lovely,
Others like clowns.

As one of them I think
About all the Freshmen nigh
That although they are called "green"
The have a spirit high.

And if they keep on progressing,
And do their best and try,
They will succeed in making
A success of Stoughton High!

The Freshmen take part in many activities. They are the following:

Girl Reserve—Bernice Smith, president of the Freshman Girls Reserve, is working very diligently with us.

Home Ec.—Theodora Reinstad seems to enjoy Home Ec. and attends regularly. Esther Stockstad entertains us almost every time by singing her favorite song, "Sonny Boy." But she is always repaid by being prominent when refreshments are served.

Glee Club—Girls' Glee Club is well attended by Freshmen but we want more of them to try their art in singing next year. Although Paul Preus, Claire Chapin, Croiden Kenyon, and a few others are doing their best in singing with the Boys' Glee Club we want more to do likewise in later years.

Orchestra—There are very few Freshmen in the Orchestra but we would like to have more.

Band—The Freshmen are well represented in the Band.

FRESHMAN FROLICS

"Why is 'Latin' capitalized?" asked Miss Gregerson.

"Because it's a dead language," responded Ernest Wickman.

"What is meant by a 'linear equation'?" asked M. P. Anderson.

"Pints and quarts," answered a bright boy.

"Are there any other questions before the exam?" questioned an English teacher.

"Well, I don't know how to put apostrophes in 'babies' and 'ladies'" said Victor Falk.

"What is the plural of the word 'babies'?" asked Miss Gregerson.

"Twins," responded a Freshman.

"What is a guinea?" asked Miss Gregerson.

"Some kind of a pig, isn't it?" asked Ernest Wickman.

Father: "Son, what does this 60 mean on your report card?"

Harlan Weaver: "That's the temperature of the room, father."

Claire Chapin: "This tonic is no good."

Mandis Bjordahl: "What's the matter?"

C. C.: "All the directions it gives are for adults, and I never had them."

Elton Bjornethun: "Ma, baby just dropped a penny down the well."

Mother: "I'll give him another."

E. B.: "Don't bother, he still has it in his hand."

Motherly old lady to young Freshie: "Does your mother know you smoke, dear?"

Frosh (coldly): "Madame, does your husband know you speak to strange men?"

Row 1—N. Nyhagen, G. Romoren, H. Wright, L. Quam, P. Preuse, E. Nordlie, C. Thompson, H. Weaver, E. Stockstad, G. Vea, E. Rustad.

Row 2—C. Stensrud, H. Tholo, R. Tholo, C. Skarr, A. Sundt, G. Chatel, R. Turner, S. Romme, J. Roang, D. Swalheim, G. Swingen.

Row 3—B. Rommes, E. Paulson, R. Peterson, H. Peterson, V. Peters, M. Peterson, A. Vaade, E. Wickham, O. Sperle, I. Quam, L. Peterson, I. Quale.

Freshmen

Drug Store Clerk: "Did you kill any moths with those moth-balls I sold you?"

Ellsworth Hoover: "No, I tried for three hours, but I couldn't hit any."

Father of young Frosh: "Shall I take you to the zoo?"

Frosh: "No, if they want me they can come and get me."

Frosh: "I believe this school is haunted."

Soph: "Why?"

Frosh: "They are always talking about the school spirit around here."

Miss Leach: "Charles, how much is six times eight divided by nine?"

Charles Seffens: "I'd like very much to tell you, teacher, but I think it'll do you better if you think it out yourself."

Burrull Hanson: "Is that a rooster crowing?"

Arnold Furseth: "No, that's the hen saying their 'Now I lay me's'."

Harlow Wright: "I smoke nothing but quarter cigars now."

Harold Thorpe: "How come, did the boss give you a raise?"

H. W.: "Nope, he smokes the other three quarters."

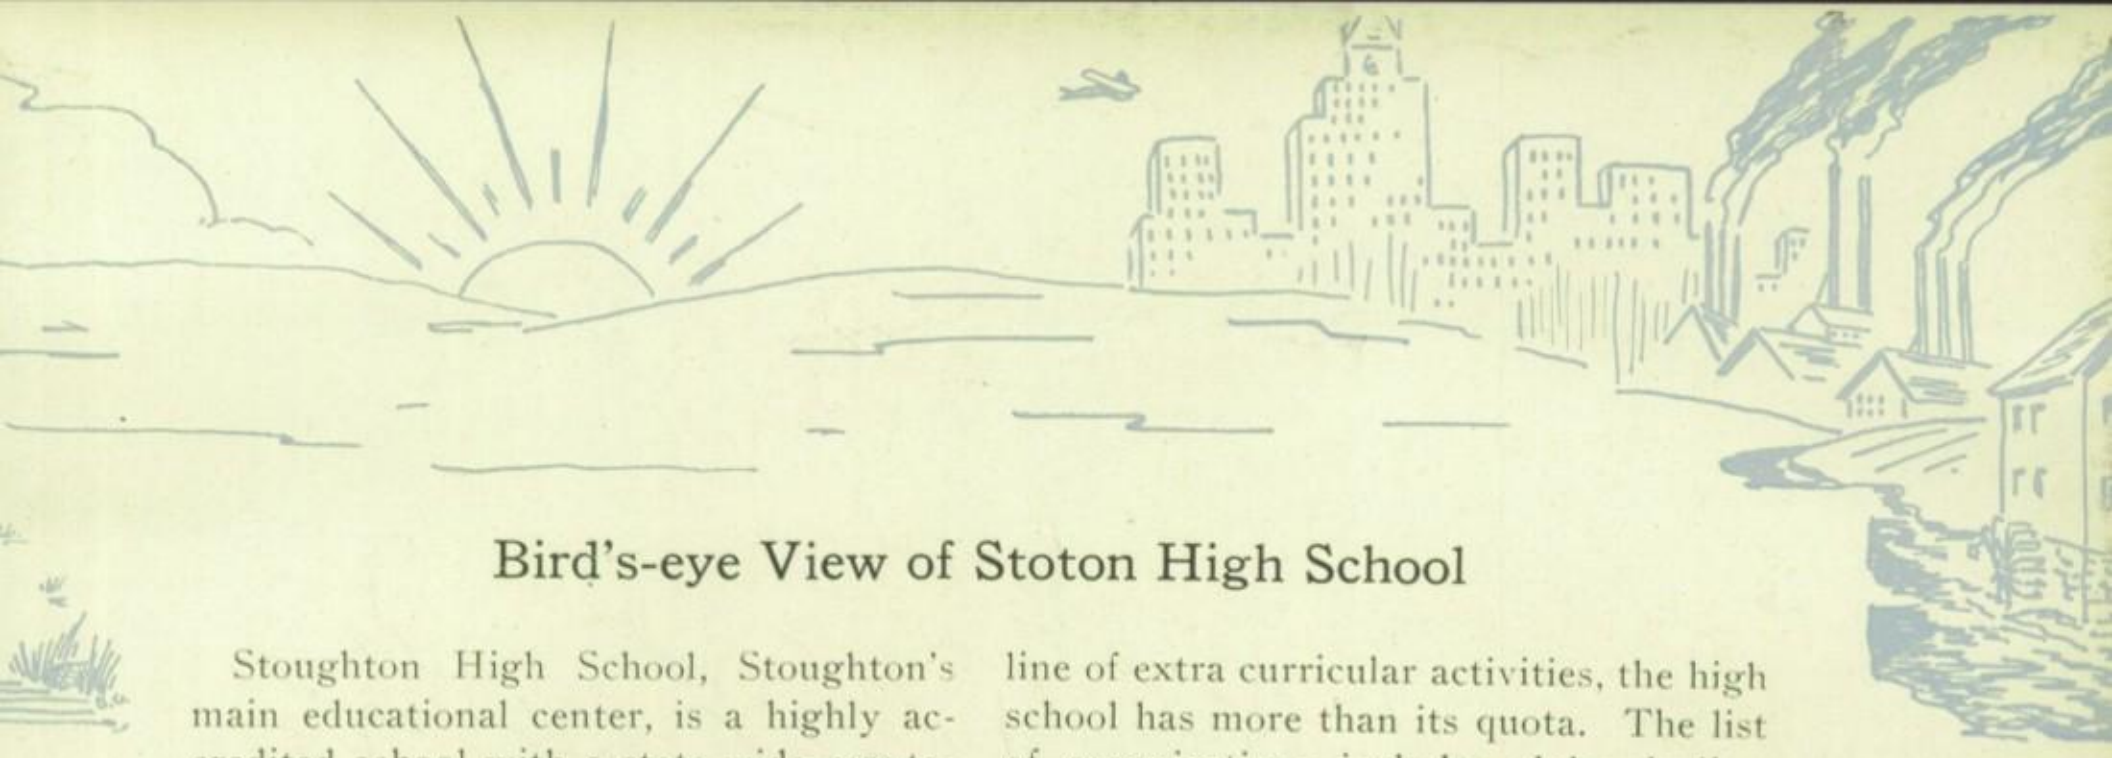
LOVE'S PROGRESS

The Freshman: "Love me? Of course she loves me. Haven't I kissed her?"

The Sophomore: "Doubt her? I had not thought to doubt her. Perhaps I should. One never can be sure."

The Junior: "Love? Mere prattle of foolishness, not for me."

The Senior: "Say, old chap, would you mind being my best man?"



Bird's-eye View of Stoton High School

Stoughton High School, Stoughton's main educational center, is a highly accredited school with a state wide reputation for being of the best for its size. The institution is supported by local taxpayers with a school board made up of local citizens controling its destinies.

The school houses its courses in three buildings other than the mother building on North Street. It has a corps of some twenty instructors who teach courses all the way from bricklaying to needlework. The fact that its teachers are of the first rank is proved by the fact that three left this year for higher and more lucrative fields. Aside from the teachers a school nurse is retained to maintain a presentable standard of health. The whole staff work with the guidance and suggestions of Principal Falk.

Stoughton's high school attendance includes nearly one-tenth of the city's population. The number enrolled at the present time is on the heavy side of four hundred and fifty with indications for a greater increase in the future. The indications are so strong that school authorities have gone so far as to engage teachers for the next year whose duties it will be to instruct excess classes.

Stoughton boasts of an efficient vocational school which so few small cities can list among their assets. This subsidiary, although running on a small scale, offers a means of learning to those who are compelled to work in their youth.

The voice of the student is given an outlet in the Student Council, a body composed of representatives of all high school organizations. The council, under the advice of the principal, hands down decisions to the student body. In the line of extra curricular activities, the high school has more than its quota. The list of organizations includes clubs dealing with agriculture, the literary field, and boy's work.

Athletics, which holds a major share in the life of any school, is well established in Stoughton and has a financial rating of which to be proud. Athletics are governed by an athletic board consisting of selections from the student body, the coaches and principal. The high school stresses physical education for both boys and girls and for that purpose has on its payroll a competent physical director. Intramural athletics is touched upon in the annual interclass leagues conducted under the auspices of the athletic board.

Stoughton's gymnasium is large and roomy and contains adequate apparatus for extensive training. The recently enlarged athletic field is converted into a skating rink in the barren months with flood lights making it suitable for night use.

The high school's trophy case is well filled with cups and plaques, denoting successful competition in both forensics and athletics. Debating and declamatory-oratory contests are fostered with local contestants frequently bringing home laurels from foreign fields.

The Senior Class publishes a yearbook which portrays an excellent cross section of student life. Class plays, a Junior Prom and a Senior Mixer take their place among the major social events of the year.

Above all Stoughton High School is possessed of a student body that will keep the praises for its Alma Mater ringing far into the days of the future.

Athletic Board

OFFICERS

President.....Dorothy Hatzinger
Vice-President.....Elizabeth Drotning
Secretary.....Harriet Hale
Treasurer.....Olaf Roe

The Athletic Board is for the purpose of superintending and managing all athletic concerns in our high school. It endeavors to create an interest in athletics which will benefit the entire school. The principal, the coaches and captains of the school sports, the G. A. A. advisor and president are all automatically on the Board. However, each year the student body elects four students who complete the Board. The president is elected by the student body; then the other members elect the three remaining officers.

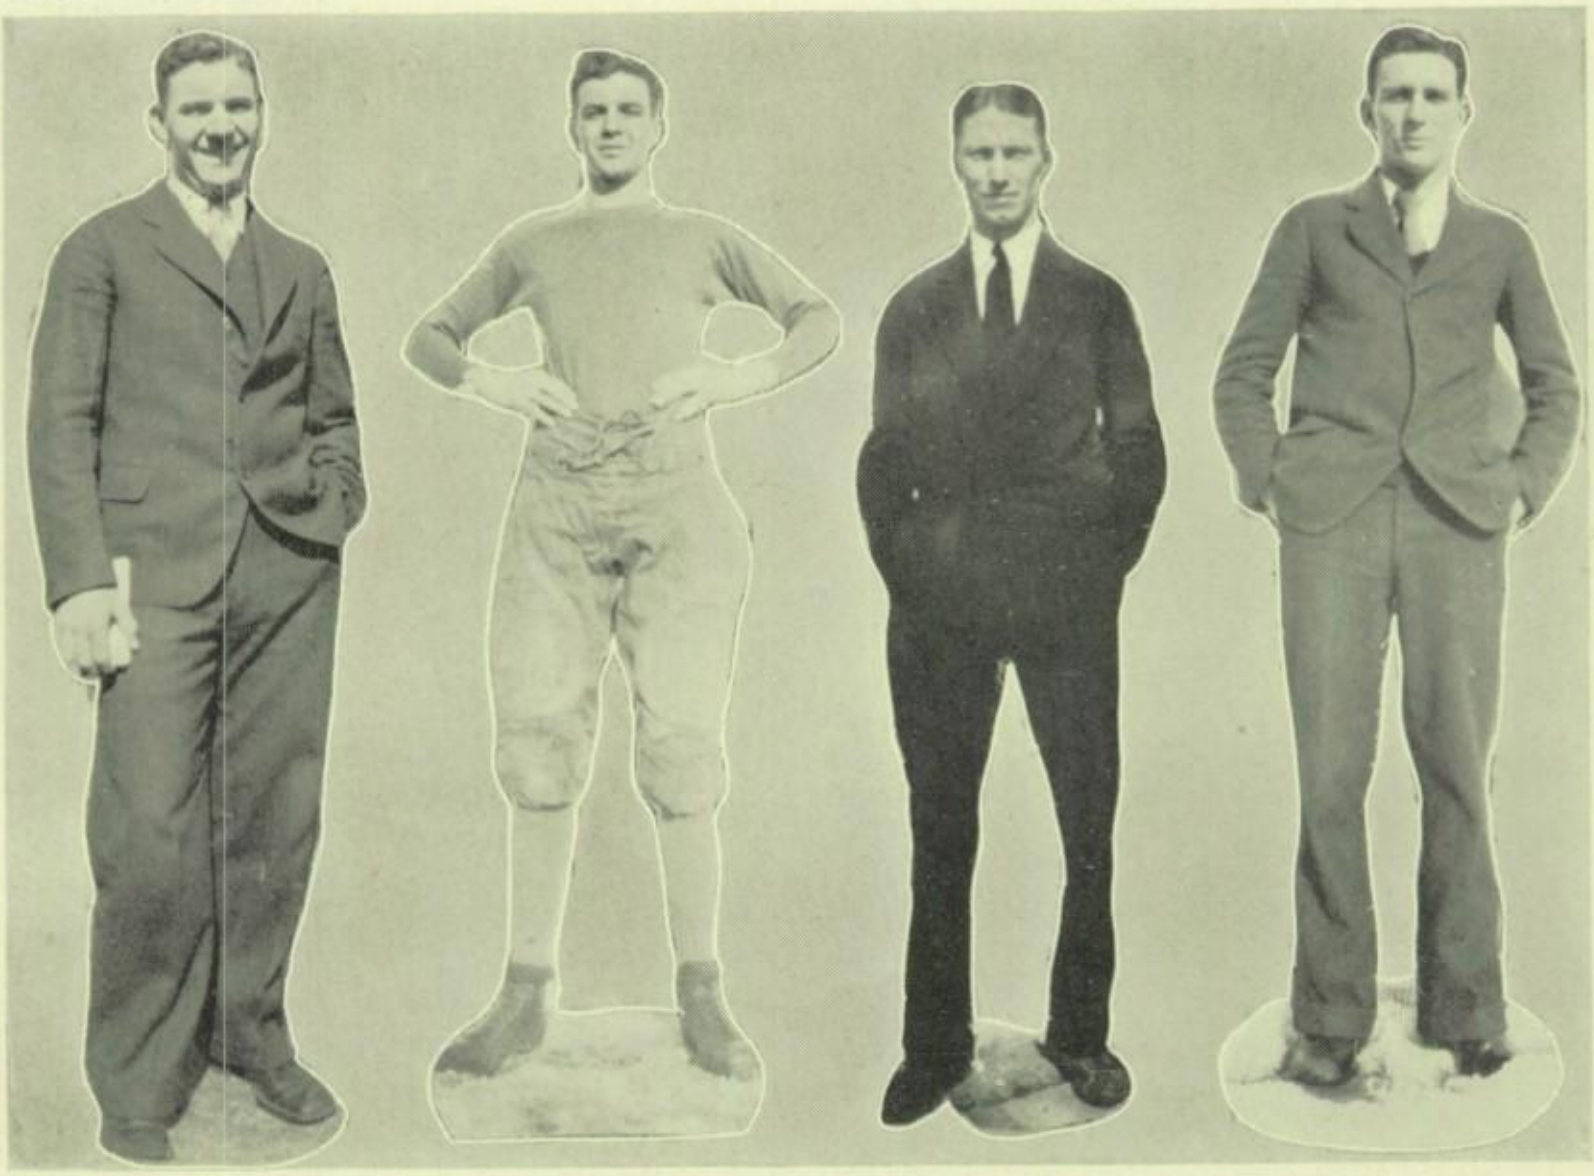
It is also our duty to co-operate in determining who have fulfilled the requirements for earning the letter S.

This year we have introduced a new system of inter-class basketball. In order to eliminate the old feeling of enmity between the second team and first team of the various classes, we have put the teams on an equal basis for the trophies which are awarded to the class represented by the boys' and girls' teams with the highest percentage.

The Senior boys and the Senior girls won the trophy in their respective leagues.

Another interesting enterprise staged by the board was an interclass skating tournament, which uncovered a crop of young skaters with a great deal of natural ability.

With the support of the student body and the enthusiastic backing of our townspeople, we have succeeded in bringing an unusually successful financial year to our school.



Football Staff

The football team had a successful season, despite having lost several mainstays from the previous year's team. Coach Wilke, ably assisted by Ray Myrick, turned out a team made largely of green men that came through the season with very creditable showing. "Earl" and "Ray" showed their superior coaching ability by developing players out of such men as Alf Christenson, Harold Christianson, Ingolf Turmo, and Harold Thorpe, who had no real previous experience. Rain or shine, these men were out there with the boys, giving their best to make a good team out of them, and succeeding. The practice sessions were long and hard, sometimes in two or three inches of mud, and sometimes on the cement-like dried mud of the Athletic field, but the boys came out every night and practiced faithfully.

Another big factor in the success of our team this year was the fine work of Malcolm Stogdill as manager. Malcolm was faced with the difficult job of filling the shoes of the capable Randecker twins, but he accomplished the job in a manner which would do anyone credit.

Garfield Thorpe, chosen captain of the team last spring, lived up to all hopes and expectations and provided the spirit and fight that every good captain must be able to instill in his team-mates.

One more thing we can't forget is the splendid work of the Athletic Board in taking care of the financial burdens of the team. The greater share of the credit belongs to the business manager, Olaf Roe, who did the most work and worry and carried the most responsibility.

Football Squad

The football season was a very successful one both from the standpoint of games won and lost, and from the standpoint of the spirit and good feeling which prevailed on the squad all season. The team came through with three wins, two loses, and a tie, to finish in third place in the new conference, the Southern Wisconsin Six, consisting of Stoughton, Edgerton, Monroe, Watertown, University High, and Fort Atkinson. In the Jefferson game, one of the two non-conference games of the season, the Purple warriors were at their best, going through Jefferson line and around their end at will, and winning by a score of 19 to 6. However, it was in this game that Turmo injured his leg and left us with a hole to fill at his end for some time. Injuries were frequent occurrences and handicapped the team badly. Sundby received an internal injury in the Fort Atkinson game and was out for several games. "Bobby" Everson hurt his hip and Alf his knee in practice sessions, while John McKercher hurt his hand in the game. Had it not been for these injuries, Stoughton probably would have stood still higher in the list.

Captain "Gar" Thorpe, playing his last year of high school football, led the team well and kept up their spirit and fight. The burdens of the captaincy did not lower the standard of his personal playing, for brilliant snatching of the ball from all parts of the zone on aerials still remained a mystery to opposing teams, and his low tackling was a thing to wonder at. "Gar" finished his football career in a blaze of glory.

Regretting his loss as we do, nevertheless, we feel that Captain-Elect "Greg" Anderson can fill his place and lead next year's team through, we hope, a still better season. Prospects for the team next year are bright, since there will be left seven letter men—Turmo, Ausse, McKercher, Harold Thorpe, Johnson, Sundby, and Anderson, together with lots of promising new material and numeral men.

Football

Robert Everson—Fullback

Bob was another valuable man to have in reserve. He was a good passer and blocker and carried the ball like a professional. When Sundby was laid up, Bob stepped into his shoes and proved his worth.

Boris Schuster—Tackle

"Budda" was another green man, but his everlasting fight and spirit made him a respected and a feared opponent to all the opposing men. Backs and ends steered clear of his fierce tackling and blocking.

Orlin Ausse—Tackle

Another very important cog in the machine built up by Wilke was Ausse. Ausse's natural ability, aided by his 180 pounds of muscle, enabled him to open holes for the backfield men in almost any line.

Harold Christianson—Center

This year was "Hella's" first year to report for football, but Wilke discovered in him a center of the first water. His steady passing and hard hitting defensive game kept the backfield from worrying about his end of the game.

Frank Currier—Quarterback

The responsible position of quarterback was held by Frank Currier, a heady field general with an eye for weak spots in other teams. He also proved a good ball carrier in his numerous and unexpected quarterback sneaks.

Alf Christenson—Guard

"Christy" playing his first active year of football, showed all the other teams something new in speed, both on offense and defense. As a blocking interference man, he had no superior in the league, and was selected for a berth on the All-Conference Eleven.

Football

Gregory Anderson—Halfback

The king pin of the offense, "Greg's" dazzling speed and wonderful side-stepping simply couldn't be equaled. "Give Greg the ball!" became the slogan of the rooters. His extraordinary ability gave him a place on the All-Conference Team also, giving Stoughton two representatives on the mythical eleven.

Ingolf Turmo—End

"Ing" developed into a wonderful defensive end this year. The way he threw himself into the opposing interference men was a sight worth seeing. An injury to his knee incapacitated him to some extent during the latter part of the season, and he was sorely missed.

John McKercher—Guard

Johnnie fulfilled expectations and came through in great shape this year. He was a hard-hitting forward wall man with plenty of fight and "guts." Scotch, as his name suggests, he lived up to his nationality's reputation, and refused to "give" an inch.

Olaf Sundby—Halfback

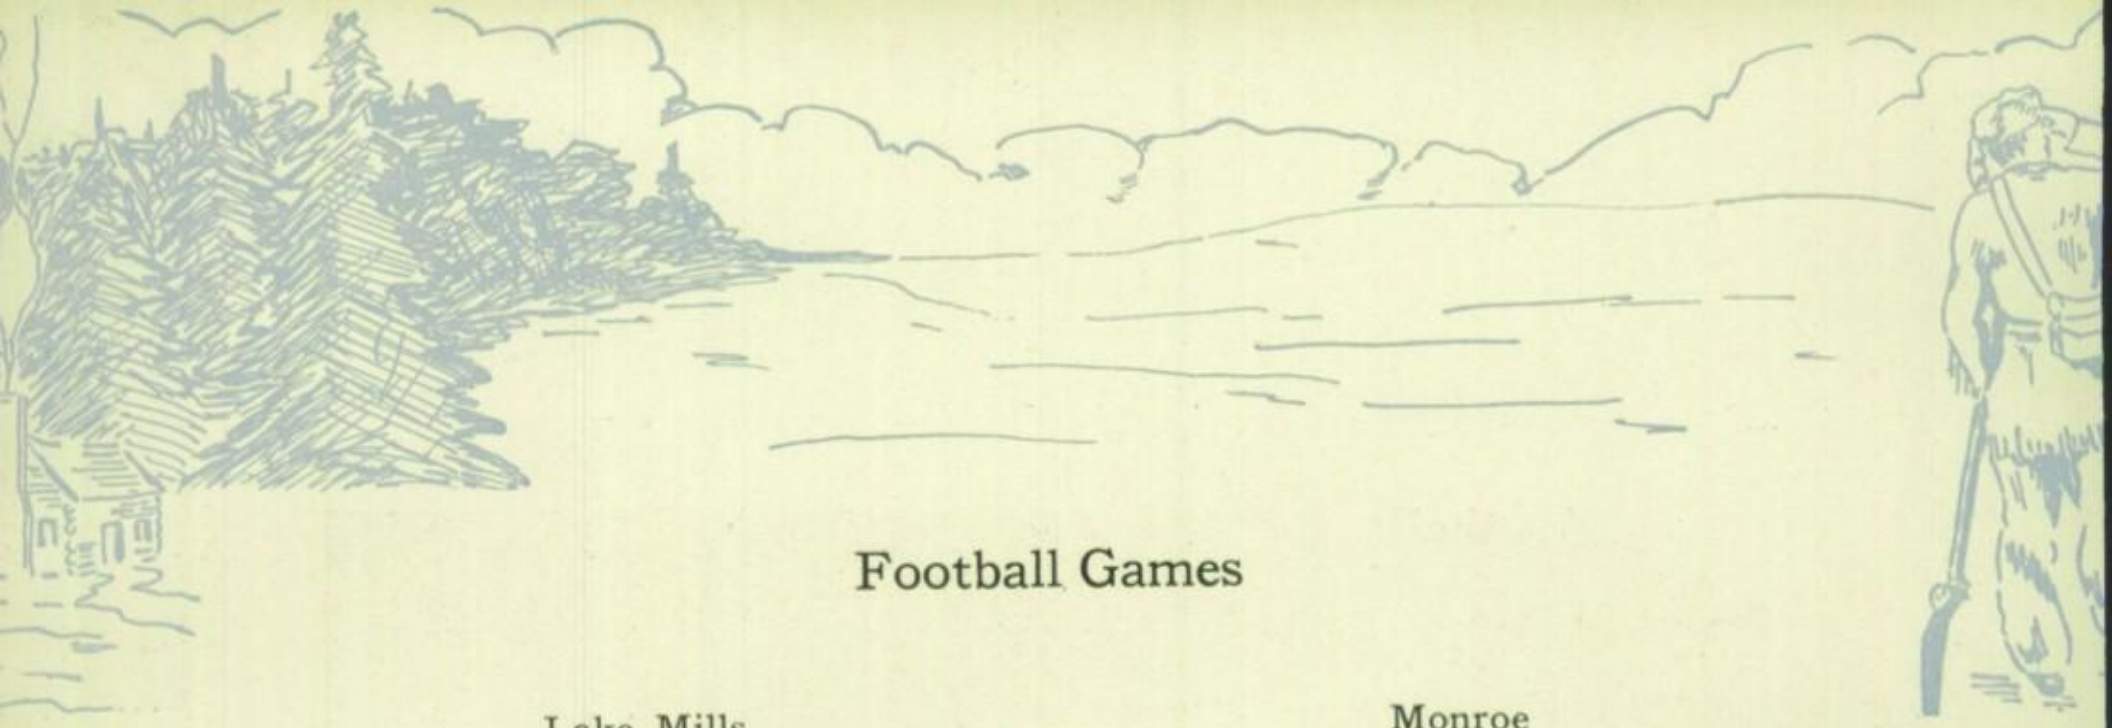
"Ole" is another man with a couple of years of playing ahead of him. His speed and snakiness enabled him to dash through the line continually for good gains until an internal injury put him out of the game for some time and bothered him all season.

Donald Johnson—Halfback

"Don," alternating at half and end, proved a valuable utility man in either position, filling the end position, left empty by Turmo when "Ing" was injured, in a very satisfactory manner and performing well in the back-field also.

Harold Thorpe—Fullback

Another green man, Thorpe, proved himself worthy of his name, which is synonymous with "athletic ability." His accurate passing and kicking provided something to fall back on in time of need. The coaches can be thankful they have a man like him remaining for three more years.



Football Games

Lake Mills

In the first game of the season between the two age-old rivals a score of 13-6 resulted in a game featured primarily by fumbles and penalties by the proteges of Coaches Wilke and Myrick. The locals reeled off a yardage game from the line of scrimmage nearing 400 yards, and completed 7 passes. In short, it was a lop-sided affair.

Monroe

The following Saturday the giant, but hitherto unsuccessful team from Monroe, battled with Stoughton to a dead-lock. Assault after assault was launched and repulsed in succession by each machine. The Stoughton forward wall functioned smoothly and the back-field was its stellar self, but it had no effect whatever on the inspired cheesemen and the game ended in a 7-7 tie.

Fort Atkinson

The next Saturday the Purple and White waved bravely over the field of Fort Atkinson while her staunch sons battled fiercely to overcome a pair of obstacles in the form of the Fort men and misfortune. In yardage gain and all around form those from the banks of the Yahara excelled. The score seems to show otherwise, ending in a 13-6 defeat.

Jefferson

A hapless team carrying the hopes of Jefferson met the attack of a purple team out for vengeance. The baffled enemy were at the short end of 19-6 marker after the fury had spent itself. "Greg" Anderson continued his unprecedented ball-toting with the aid of the rest of the agile and hard-hitting backs.

Wisconsin High

The following week-end the Wilke men crashed through, to the Badger prep's grief, to the tune of 13-6. Wisconsin High started out in a grand manner, but they soon lost their importance, the last half being a series of retreats toward their own goal; however, the score, despite that, remained close, since the Badgers became desperate on several occasions.

Edgerton

After two weeks' rest the Wilkemen met Edgerton in the Homecoming game. Feeling and confidence ran high before the game. We were sure that the age-old Indian sign which Edgerton has held over Stoughton teams so many years would be broken, but Wallmow and R. Miller of the Trailers deemed it otherwise. The Stoughtonites were way off form, and the game ended with Stoughton on the short end of a 13-0 score.

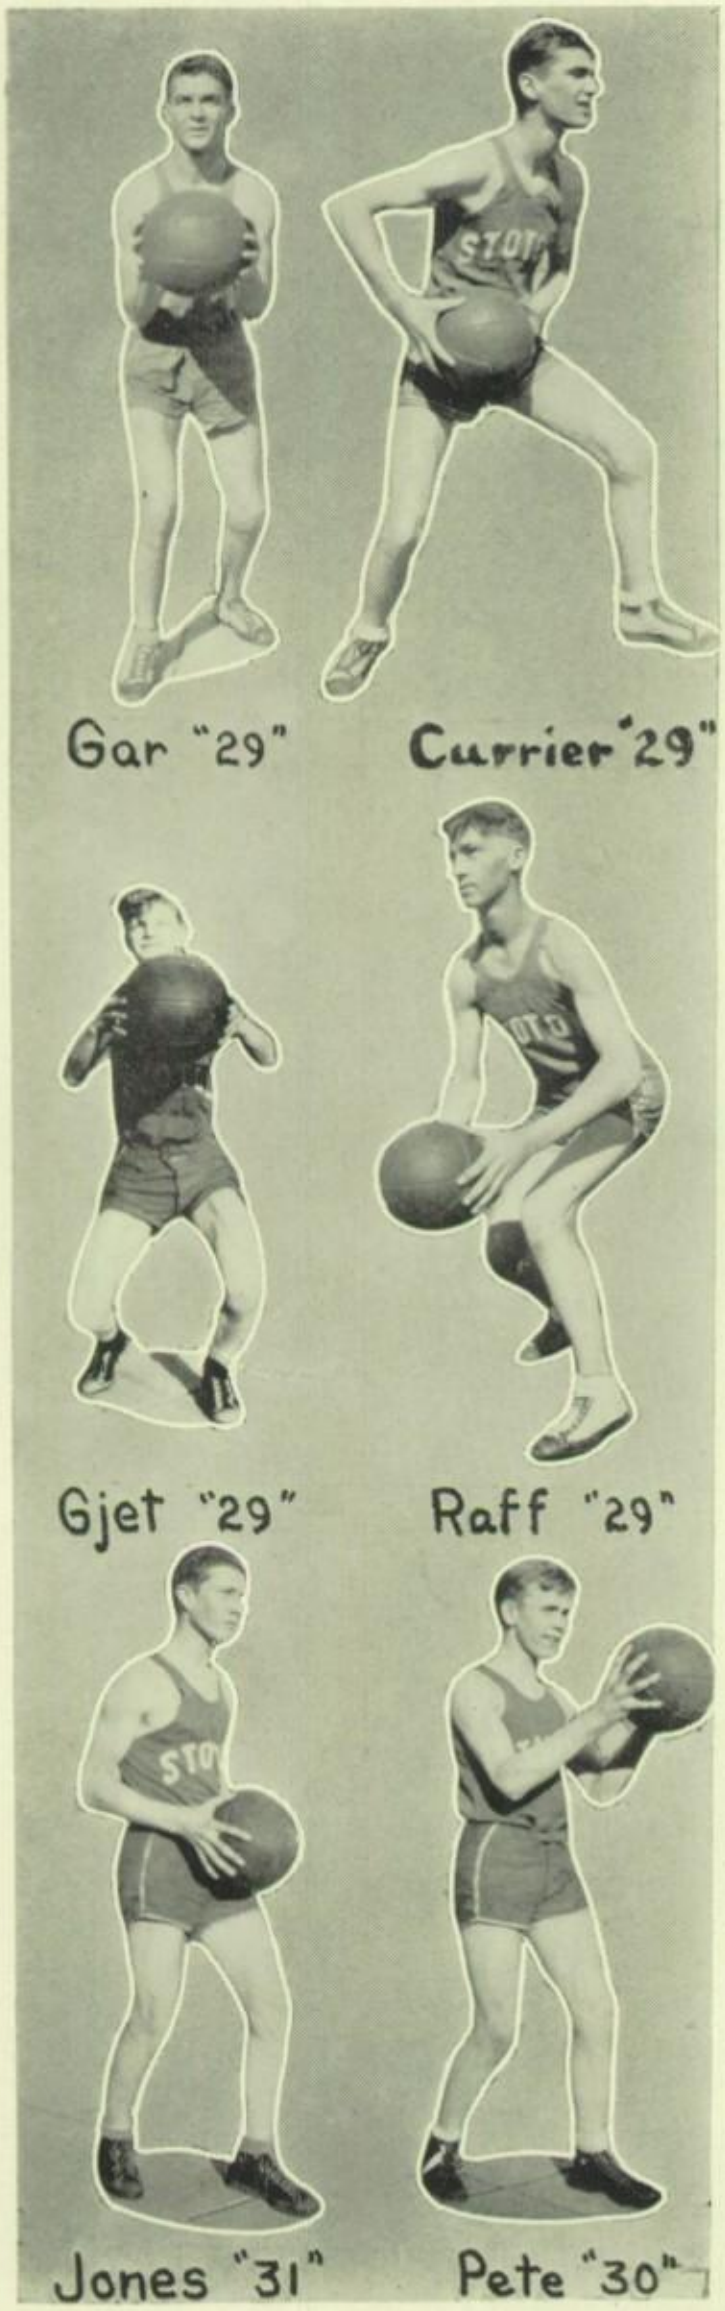
Basketball

The cagers, with only one letterman from last year's five, had a comparatively poor season. The unexperienced players could not stand the stern competition furnished by the more experienced opposition. Our fellows played an admirable game for a certain interval, then became more or less "fagged out" as a result of being forced to their utmost limits in fighting the length of the game against the gigantic basketeers that predominated the other schools. Although of smaller stature than their nature-favored opponents, their "grit" was unparalleled, and the game was never in the bag until the final whistle. Moreover, Madamoiselle Destiny was ever cool to them.

Coach Myrick again proved his unexcelled ability in imparting the technique of the cage game to an outfit handicapped in size and experience. The boys' faith in Mr. Myrick, both as a coach and as a man, was unsurpassed.

"Vic" Falk as manager was an inspiration to the team. He was always on hand to help the boys when in the slightest difficulty. His eternal cheerfulness was contagious.

The prospects for a successful team next year appear bright. Four lettermen are returning besides four other promising warriors out for their first taste of blood.



Basketball

Garfield Thorpe—Center

Captain "Gar Thorpe played a smashing, brilliant game throughout the entire season. His only rival in brilliancy at the pivot position in the circuit was "Stretch" Scharfenberg, 6 ft. 3 in., who surpassed him only in reach.

Frank Currier—Forward

Currier was a very brilliant floorman durin the last season, being most elusive for the opposition to cover. Stoughton Highlaments the loss of this forward through graduation.

Herman Gjestson—Forward

"Hansy" Gjestson played havoc with the enemy who always feared his deadly eye and flashing activities near their net. He was a colorful personality who was always "on" when the going was toughest. Another forward, he also graduates.

Ralph Atkinson—Guard

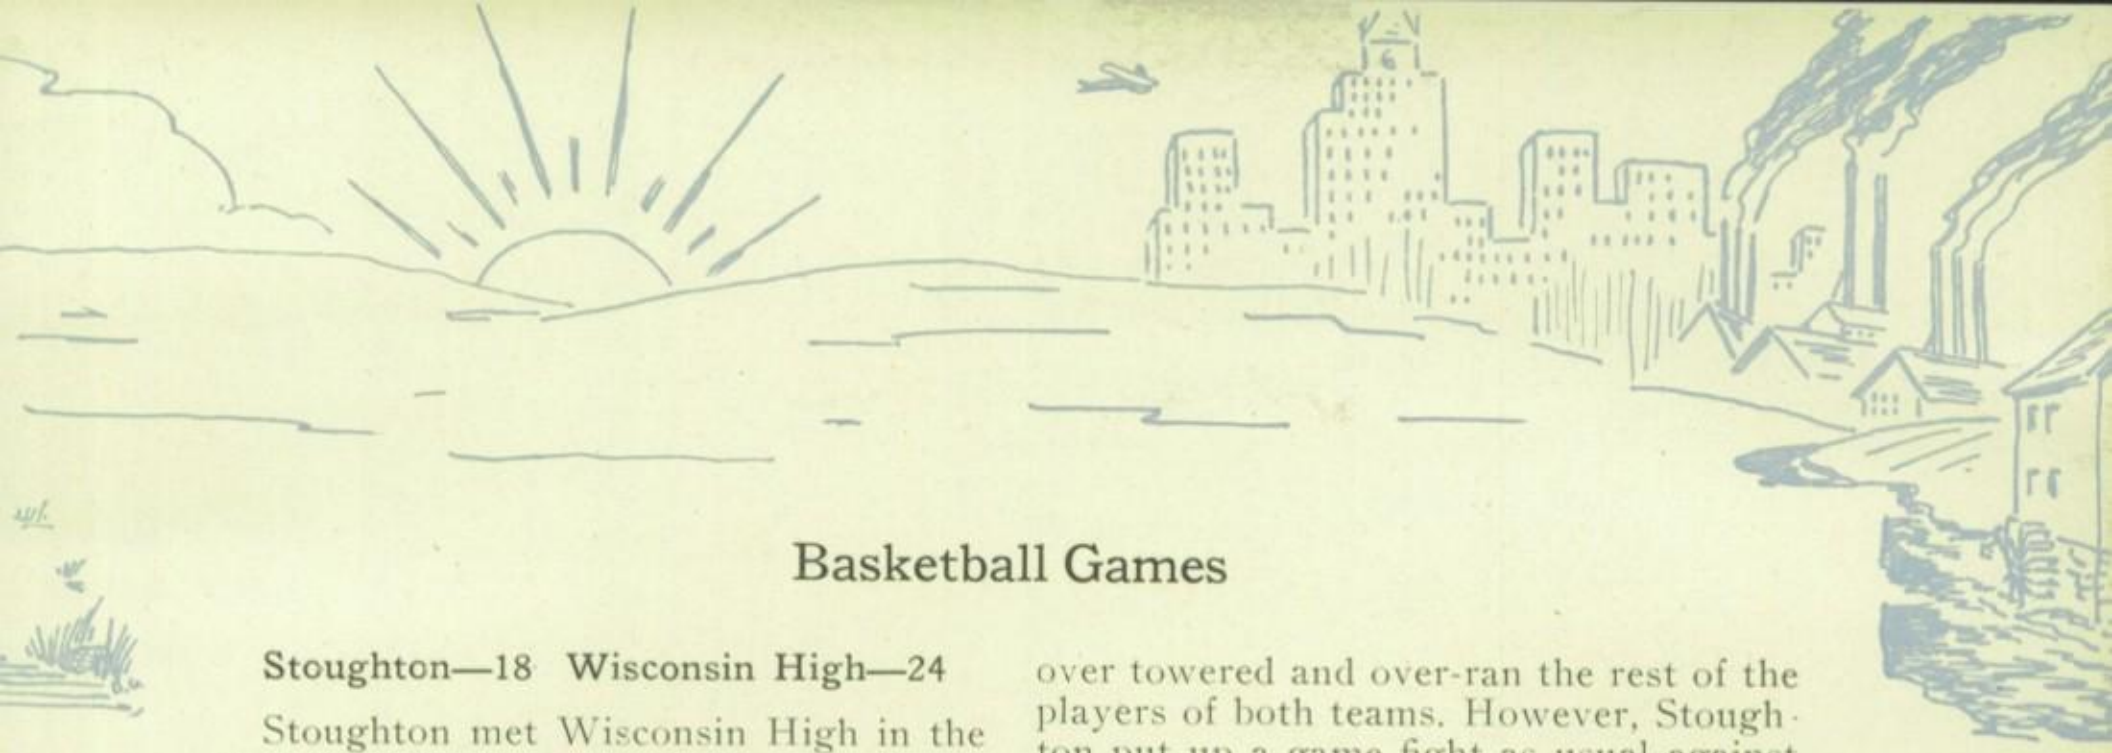
"Raf" Atkinson was the stellar guard who broke up many of the pet plays of the opponents. He kept the Purple players in many a game by his defensive aggressiveness. He is also a senior.

Howard Jones—Forward

Jones, with his extremely business-like hands, kept the opposition in desperate straits in trying to keep said hands from encircling the much coveted sphere, since they knew his accuracy. Stoughton claims him for two more years.

Peter Vea—Guard

"Pete" was a cyclone of activity during the last season. His fine work was an unequalled asset, combining an intense energy and unerring accuracy. He is a Junior, who will be even greater next year.



Basketball Games

Stoughton—18 Wisconsin High—24

Stoughton met Wisconsin High in the first basketball game of the new South Central League. This proved to be a closely contested game; the decision was rendered only in the last few minutes to the Preps of Madison.

Stoughton—23 Evansville—13

The next game, a non-league affair, ended in the Vikings' running roughshod over the valiant Evansville team by a satisfactory score of 23 to 13. The opponents received most of their points via the free throw route.

Stoughton—6 Fort Atkinson—15

This was an off game for both teams, but more so for Stoughton. Both teams relied most on defensive measures, but Stoughton couldn't connect satisfactorily on their long shots.

Stoughton—12 Fort Atkinson—25

In a return game between the two teams a better showing was made by both, but the sphere refused to connect with the hoop defended by the rivals of the Myrick-men.

Stoughton—16 Watertown—22

The next Friday Stoughton and Watertown High came together to decide which should occupy the cellar for the present. The huge Sweitzers had an exceptional night, but barely won the tilt.

Stoughton—18 Evansville—8

In the return tilt with Evansville the local basketeers for a change met a team of their own size in physical build, but not in basketball technique, since they gained a victory to the tune of 18 to 8.

Stoughton—16 Edgerton—32

This game was all "Stretch" Scharfenberg, the giant center of Edgerton. He over towered and over-ran the rest of the players of both teams. However, Stoughton put up a game fight as usual against overwhelming odds.

Stoughton—13 Monroe—16

The game of basketball with the Monroe gallants resembled that of the football game, being an extremely hard fought affair. The gameness and persistence of our boys was remarkable, however.

Stoughton—17 Wisconsin High—25

"Uneasy rests the head on which lies the crown." Captain Thorpe proved this to the prospective champions of the circuit in the thrilling last 10 minutes when he gained 12 points before the flash of the gun.

Stoughton—15 Edgerton—17

This the Myrickmen lost, due to the free throwing ability of their bitterest rivals, Edgerton, who won the margin of victory by their five gift shots, Stoughton proving superior otherwise.

Stoughton—15 Monroe—19

The return game with Monroe was one which Stoughton was determined to win, but destiny decided it otherwise, since five seconds before "finis" two baskets of the enemy slid through the netting.

Elimination Game

To determine which school should be represented at the Whitewater Tournament, Stoughton and Whitewater fought it out at Whitewater in what was essentially a defensively played game by both. The score was 11 to 8 in favor of Whitewater.

Stoughton, with its river and lake inducements, was greatly benefited by the Yahara excursion boats.

The Legislature of the State, at its annual session, held in the winter of 1867-68, passed an act incorporating the village and giving a charter under which the first election was held in April, 1868, creating the first town board.

Student Council

OFFICERS

President.....Bjarne Romnes

Vice-President.....Elsie Onsrud

Secretary-Treasurer .....Harriet Hale

The main purpose of Student Council is to give some voice to the student body in plans of improvement for our school.

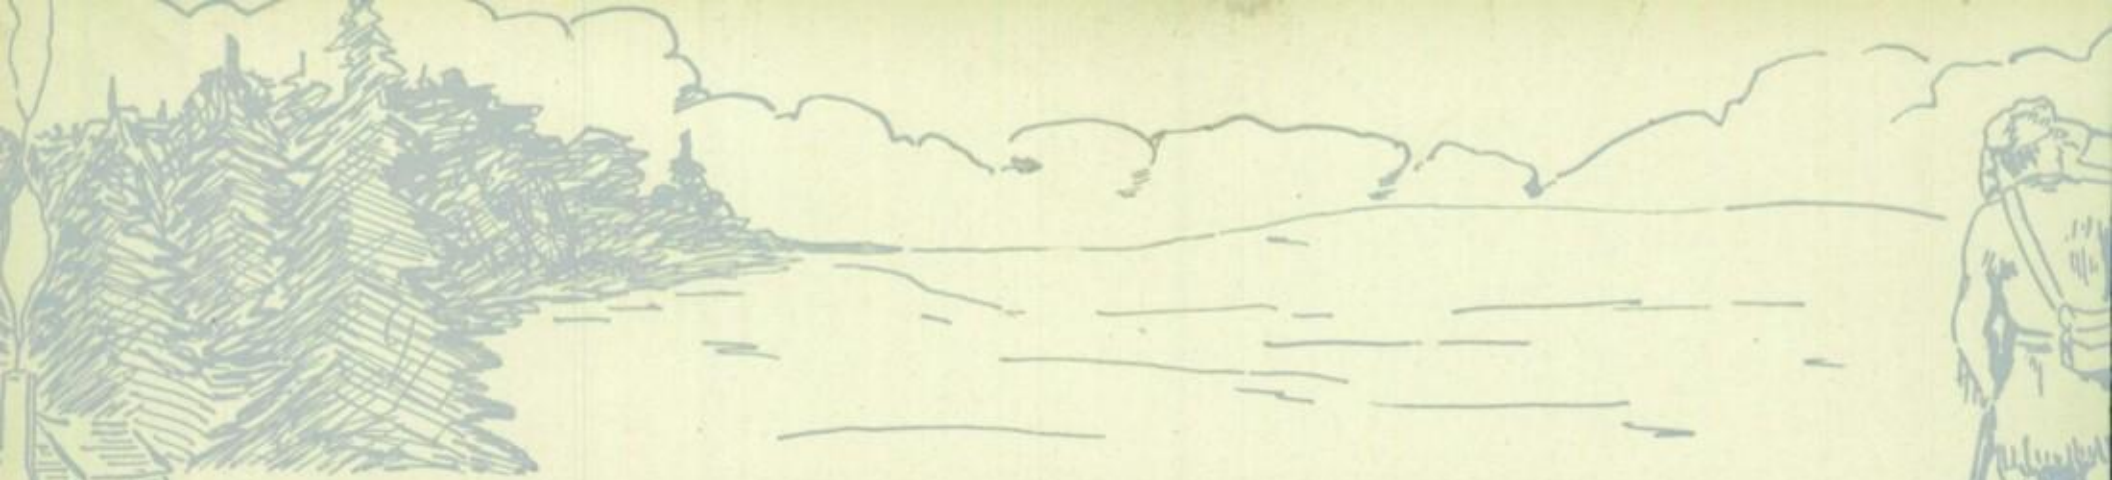
The Council itself represents each of our classes and every extra-curricular activity. Those who make up the Council are: the presidents of their respective classes, a representative of each outside activity, the captains of the season's sport, the cheer leader, and the advisor, Principal Falk.

Whenever our president, Bjarne Romnes, finds it necessary to call a meeting we come together. We usually talk about some problem that enters into the school or decide on some improvement on the present financial system.

From Mr. Falk's suggestion that we work out a plan for assembly which would be more to the interest of the students we tried a plan of hiring a man who makes his living traveling from high school to high school to come here and perform. In this case he happened to be a musician. A crowd of over six hundred students enjoyed this very fascinating program, but because of the lack of financial co-operation from the students we were obliged to give up this plan of assembly entertainment.

Our council is the body which finances the Debate work and the Oratory and Declamatory Contest. We feel these are both exceedingly worth while.

To raise money for this purpose, we put on a benefit movie at the Badger Theater, March 25th, through the courtesy of Mr. Guelson. The main feature was the "Dress Parade." The enterprise was a big success financially.



YAHARA STAFF

The publication of the year book of Stoughton High School, The Yahara, is the greatest activity of the school year. The seemingly endless days of waiting are brought to a thrilling climax when the date of distribution arrives. Needless to say, much is expected of this fourteenth volume of the Yahara and the staff sincerely hopes that this book gives a fairly accurate conception of the calibre of our high school.

No student realizes the tremendous amount of work involved in the publication of an annual—and certainly a successful one. Stoughton High—especially the Senior class of '29—cannot give too much praise to our staff and Miss Helen May Williams, our very capable and willing advisor. An annual cannot be created by two or three alone. No one is aware of that fact more than an Editor and Business Manager, and with this in mind we, Alf Christenson and Bjarne Romnes, wish to thank our entire staff, Miss Williams, and the student body for their splendid and whole-hearted coöperation in publishing this Yahara of 1929.

Girl Reserves

OFFICERS

President.....Bernice Smith
Vice-President.....Beulah Gryttenholm
Secretary .....Edna Kaupanger
Treasurer .....Esther Augustine

The Girl Reserves is an organization for the benefit of girls. We have a code that all members must try to obey in order to be loyal to the Girl Reserve, which is as follows:

Gracious in manner
Impartial in judgment
Ready for service
Loyal to friends.

Reaching toward the best
Earnest in purpose.
Seeing the beautiful,
Eager for knowledge.
Reverent to God.
Victorious over self.
Ever dependable
Sincere at all times.

The Girl Reserves have held their meetings in school under the direction of Mrs. Sundt and Mrs. Wilson, and the Misses Hulsther, Mealaas, Leach, and Haven.

Last fall the upper classmen of the Reserves entertained the Freshmen Reserves to a weiner roast. It was held at Aaker's Woods.

To take care of finances we have sold candy at the Junior Class Play, and sold tickets for the Legion, who held three performances at the auditorium. We made quite a sum of money.

February 27, 1929, the Reserves held a banquet at the First Lutheran Church, which the mothers and daughters attended.

We have been working this year in the way of experiment to find out what we really want. Although we have not yet accomplished what we are aiming for, we some day hope to make this organization successful.

This club is a Junior division of the Y. W. C. A. Although only in its second year of existence, this club, under the supervision of Miss Leach, has become an active organization in High School.

This year the club has been divided into two parts—a Junior and Senior club. The members of the Junior club consist of most of the Freshman girls, who next year will certainly be fit to become Senior members. The Senior club was under the supervision of Miss Haven.

When new members are taken in, any high school girl may become a member if she wishes to live up to the purpose of the club.

The club has done a number of things to make itself known. When the weather was at its best, a sleigh ride party was held. Hot lunch was served by the town board who have done much to make the club a success.

To help bring out the school spirit, members of the Girl Reserves made pom-poms of the school colors. These were sold at the football games, and surely made a big hit.

On the twenty-seventh of February the Annual Mother and Daughter Banquet was held. A very interesting program was given in the presence of about two hundred and twenty-five mothers and daughters.

As each day goes by, the purpose of the Girl Reserves is becoming more firmly planted in the hearts of high school girls.

Hi-Y

OFFICERS

President.....Alf Christenson
Vice-President.....Malcolm Stogdill
Secretary .....Philip Klaesson
Treasurer.....Robert Palmer

The Hi-Y Club continued its existence with a good year. Although we lost our old advisor, Mr. Nelson, we found an able and well-liked successor in Mr. Andersen.

The Hi-Y Club is maintained for the purpose of extending high standards of Christian character throughout the school and community. Although we don't pretend to be perfect, or even expect to ever be, we think that we have done quite a bit in upholding this platform.

Perhaps the high spot of our Hi-Y year was on February 23-24. On this week end the Dane County Older Boys' Conference was held in Stoughton at the Central Christ Church. Although weather conditions were bad and roads worse, the conference had an attendance of about one hundred boys from various parts of the county. The conference was very interesting, its best points being the talks given by Mr. Roberts, of New York, a man high up in the Y. M. C. A. work.

Of course, all our meetings are not entirely serious, as we still hold to the old rule of paddling all our tardy members. Then, too, during the year, the Hi-Y "slung" several parties, both "with and without."

So, on the whole, we feel we can say that Hi-Y has justified its existence and we think it will continue to do so.

Philomathia

OFFICERS

President.....Harriet Larson
Vice-President.....Leobelle Hagen
Secretary.....Henrietta Onsrud
Treasurer.....Elizabeth Drotning

Philomathia is a society for girls who have achieved high scholastic standings and are eager to keep up these standings. Beginning with the Sophomore year, any girl in high school is eligible to join providing she fulfills the latter requirement. Character and adaptability, as well as grades, are considered when new members are being voted upon.

This old organization is one of the most esteemed societies in the high school and will continue to be as long as it lives up to its high standards. The purposes of the club are to increase the appreciation of beauty and art, and to come in closer contact with good literature.

Both the work and the social activities of the club have been successful throughout the year. This year, for the first time, members of Philomathia have received pins. Every two weeks the club has a meeting, and at these meetings the different Asiatic countries are discussed and studied. One book review is given at each meeting by one girl of the club. We were unable to have the Chrictmas Party that was planned, but a Sleigh-ride Party was held later on in the season. On March 16 Philomathia held its annual farewell banquet to the Seniors. Everyone present enjoyed a splendid dinner followed by a theater party at Madison.

We hope that future Philomathia members will try to uphold its high standards as we have tried to do in the past.

Home Economics

OFFICERS

President.....Alderine Dersch
Secretary-Treasurer.....Elsie Onsrud

The Home Ec. club is rather new in the extra-curricular activities, since this past year has been only the second year of its organization. However, despite its being new, it has met with great success and to all indications is one of the most active organizations in Stoughton High School.

We foster the spirit of friendship and therefore our motto is Friends. Our membership is large, thus proving that many of the girls are anxious to become better acquainted with each other and to make new friends.

Any girl in school is eligible for membership at the beginning of the school year. If a girl wishes to become a member during the year her application must be approved by the club as a whole before she is admitted. The interest has not lessened throughout the year and a number of new members have been voted in several times.

We have had a number of good times the past year which were greatly enjoyed by all who attended them. At the beginning of the year we conceived the idea of combining the initiation ceremonial of new members with a hike to Lake Kegonsa. The breezes from the lake were rather chilly, so we found shelter in a nearby woods and had one of the so called "weiny roasts." The last meeting in October consisted of a Hallowe'en costume party. A large number attended and every costume from pirates to black cats with tails was seen at this grotesque gathering. At Christmas another party was held and much excitement was the result of the unique games played.

Even though we are a Home Ec. club we have not done much toward the development of the domesticated arts, due to the extremely large membership. Our main objective has been to develop the spirit of friendliness and we feel we have been successful in our undertaking.

The first part of each meeting is devoted to business, after which a program follows. The responsibility of the programs has been under the direction of a committee which was appointed at the beginning of the year. The chairman of this committee apportioned the responsibility for the program to a committee composed of representatives from the four classes. The object of this was to arouse a spirit of competition between the members of the groups, with the result that each group tried to present a better program than the one given at the preceding meeting.

The majority of these programs have consisted of impromptu entertainment provided by the members of the club, and some very excellent talent has been discovered by this method of entertainment.

This year for the first time the members of the Home Ec. club had the privilege of buying a pin showing that they are members of this club. After much discussion one standard pin was voted upon and now each member who wears one feels very proud of her possession.

Much of the success of the organization has been due to the excellent advice and guidance which our advisor, Mrs. Thompson, has so generously given to us. I am sure the members of the organization are all very grateful for the assistance she has given the past year.

Boys' Glee Club

The Boys' Glee Club as an organization feels that it is a most successful and worthy group. Every member is vitally interested, and such a state of affairs is very conducive to big achievements. We have Miss Gress to thank for whatever compliments we entertain, because she has put her whole heart and soul into her work this year and she is certainly deserving of hearty congratulations.

Our play, "Purple Towers," through the combined efforts of both glee clubs, was a thorough success, both financially and as entertainment.

Our practices were regular and well attended, and the whole-hearted cooperation made them enjoyable and worth while.

Most of the members are back next year, and a banner year can be expected.

Our quartette was dormant for the most part this year, but they practiced and got a little personal satisfaction out of it. Paul Skinner, our biggest "shot," rendered a solo before the assembly which was heartily accepted.

We also owe a token of gratitude to Evelyn Severson for her willing support as an accompanist.

High School Patrol

The S. H. S. Patrol was organized in the fall of 1927. The Patrol has rendered two years of splendid service to the Athletic Association and to the various other school organization.

For the second time in the school's history, the Athletic Association and other organizations have closed the season with a substantial sum of money in their treasuries. Although there have been a number of reasons for this profit, a large share of the credit must go to the Boys' Patrol.

The Patrol of 1928-29 consisted of 11 members. It had for its motto, "Everybody Pays," and steadfastly proceeded to collect from all spectators at all Athletic events and other school doings. The task these boys undertook was not an easy one, at times their work was far from pleasant. It required courtesy, tact, courage, and determination. The Patrol met its responsibilities in such a splendid fashion as to win the respect and admiration of all who attended the High School games and programs.

The main purpose of the Girls' Athletic Association is to develop greater interest in athletics among the girls of our high school, and to give them a true spirit of sportsmanship.

Any girl is eligible for membership when she has fulfilled certain requirement. She must earn one hundred points. This can easily be done in various ways. She may receive twenty-five points for sixteen hours of swimming, or skating, or sliding, or any other sport, whether outdoor or indoor. She may also receive one point a mile for hiking.

Each girl must earn at least twenty-five points each semester in order to remain in the club. When she has earned three hundred points she may wear a G. A. A. pin. Each Senior girl who has earned six hundred points is entitled to a letter "S." This is the height of every girl's ambition and she works with greater zeal and earnestness to obtain it.

This year, basketball teams have been organized and have created much interest and rivalry between classes. The team winning the most games of the twelve played is awarded a trophy. Each class is divided into A and B teams and both count equally as much.

The club has been very active this year under the supervision of Miss Cook. We have many new members and all the girls seem to be attaining the things the club wishes to give to them.

Girls' Glee Club

OFFICERS

President.....Mary Hale
Vice-President.....Christine Jenson
Secretary and Treasurer.....Hazel Bratvold

The Stoughton High School Girl's Glee Club is composed of fifty-four girls selected by competitive try-outs. Fourteen new members were taken in this year, the balance being carried over from last year.

It aims to promote the highest interests of girls' ensemble singing; and to create and spread an appreciation of good music.

The Glee Club took part in assembly programs with spirited ensemble singing. Before the Edgerton football game a group of the Glee Club gave a little play imitating the Stoughton football team before a game.

On March twenty-second the operetta, "Purple Towers," was given by the combined Girls' and Boys' Glee Clubs. The operetta was a distinct success and a great deal of time was spent to make it so by the boys and girls under the diligent and patient supervision of Miss Gress.

The Girls' Glee Club was requested to take part in many entertainments. The first event was the Mothers and Daughters Banquet given by the Girl Reserves. The Glee Club sang "Wake Miss Lindy" and "When Through the Night." The sextette finished the program with the beautiful selection, "Mother of Mine."

In the spring a concert was given by the Girls' Glee Club, assisted by the orchestra.

The last event of the year for the Glee Club was the Baccalaureat services given in one of the churches.

The Girls' Sextette was reorganized this year and the new members are:

Pearl Seamonson, Christine Jensen, Mary Bjoin, Esther Stokstad, Jean Hedemark, Katharine Halvorson.

Librarian .....Howard Jones
Director.....Miss Gress

The orchestra was reorganized last year, and under the competent direction of Miss Gress, has improved greatly since that time. She has spared no amount of pains to make it what it is now. The orchestra practices only once a week, the performances are really commendable.

There is much sentiment to the effect that orchestra should be made a regular school subject. "Other schools do it, so why shouldn't we?" Such an action would undoubtedly improve this organization a great deal.

The orchestra furnishes entertainment for class plays, glee club plays, and other programs. This spring it gave a concert in collaboration with the Girls' Glee Club.

Last fall Stoughton High School sent four orchestra members to the All-State High School Orchestra at Milwaukee. This organization, functioning annually, was a two hundred and fifty piece symphony under the direction of Prof. E. B. Gordon of the University of Wisconsin. It played for the State Teachers' Convention and broadcasted its program. Membership to this organization should be, and will be, something to strive for in the future.

Perhaps the greatest function of the school orchestra is what it does for its members.

The orchestra makes them capable sight readers, teaches them simple harmonies, teaches them ensemble playing, and, best of all, teaches them to appreciate the better type of music.

Band

OFFICERS

President .....Paul Skinner
Quartermaster.....Robert Everson
Director .....Mr. Miers

The band has made very good progress this year under the able leadership of Mr. Miers of Whitewater.

Mr. Miers is also director of the Whitewater, Lake Mills, Milton Union, and other bands. He plays in some very high class bands with his "gilt-edged" cornet. We hoped he might give the High School a few solos in order that they might hear a great player.

Mr. Johnson, our last year's director, left rather unexpectedly, but the band has now attained a higher level than they have ever been before. The band gave quite a few concerts in assembly which were enjoyed by all. Howard Severson is a pretty good conductor, only he blushes too much. For that matter, so is "Bob" Everson.

Letters were given to the members who attended the meetings regularly. We feel that this is a very good thing because it helps prevent absences.

Personnel

Cornets — John McKercher, Norman Nyhagen, Orrin Swenson, Clayborn Warren, Lowell Larson, Burrull Hanson.

Row 3—Hoover, Silvertson, Quam, Thorson.

Agriculture

OFFICERS

President.....Henry Hansen
Vice-President.....Stanley Sivertson
Secretary-Treasurer.....Lyle Hougan
Advisor.....Mr. Wilke

The Agriculture Club was formed a year ago for the purpose of giving its members a few practical suggestions on becoming better farmers.

Under the leadership of Mr. Wilke, our advisor, our meetings have been very interesting as well as enjoyable. With the aid of moving pictures and data gathered by members we have been able to understand the why and how of cows, hogs, and also corn, barley, and other crops which are familiar in this locality.

All of the members would readily pass as first rate farmers.

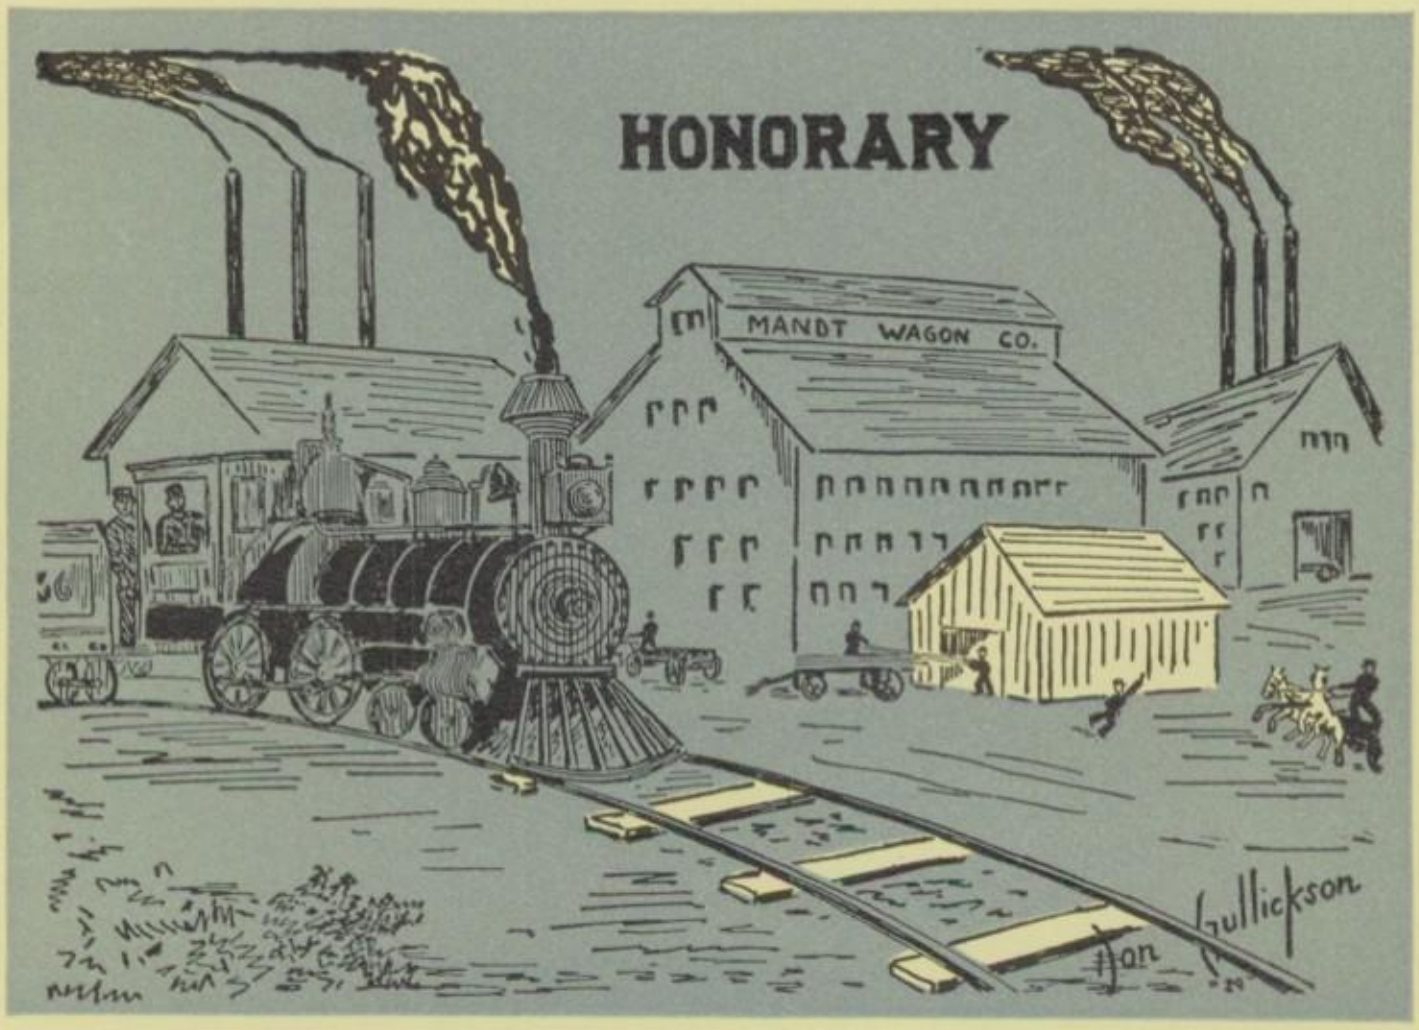
Our meetings have been liberally contributed to from the fertile brain of "Raff" Atkinson, who, by the way, is considered an authority on all farm subjects except the fine art of milking cows.

This year we decided to restrict our club membership to those boys who were residents of rural communities. Having a practical background as we have, the discussions naturally have a better meaning.

"Stub" Hoover, the half-pint farmer, enjoyed his initiation to the fullest extent—and will not mention the details.

Farming has rapidly risen in the minds of American people and therefore one of our main objectives is to increase the interest in farming. However, it hasn't been all seriousness in our club. After a little digging around for money, mostly out of our own pockets, we put on a hot party.

With this chief purpose of the club in mind, we hope that future members of the "Ag" Club will have as much of a success as we have.



The year 1870 brought with it the increasing importance of the village as a manufacturing center. The Mandt Wagon Works, established by T. G. Mandt in 1865. was at this time famous throughout the Northwest for its high quality of farm implements.

Legion Award

No member of the 1929 graduating class qualified for the American Legion Medal of Honor on the usual basis of a minimum of five hundred athletic points and five hundred scholastic points. However, the Executive Committee of the Legion decided that the medal should be awarded to that boy who most nearly exemplified those qualities which the American Legion's Award has sought to stimulate. The Committee consequently selected Alf Christenson in recognition of his high scholastic attainments and the following manly qualities displayed during the football season:

1. Courage.
2. Hard, fair play, whether winning or losing.
3. Observance of training rules.
4. Giving his best to the team.
5. Willingness at all times to play that role which is most important to the success of the team, but least conspicuous and least conducive to personal acclaim—that of blocker.
6. Coöperation with team mates and coaches.
7. Sportsmanlike conduct under all conditions.

National Honorary Society

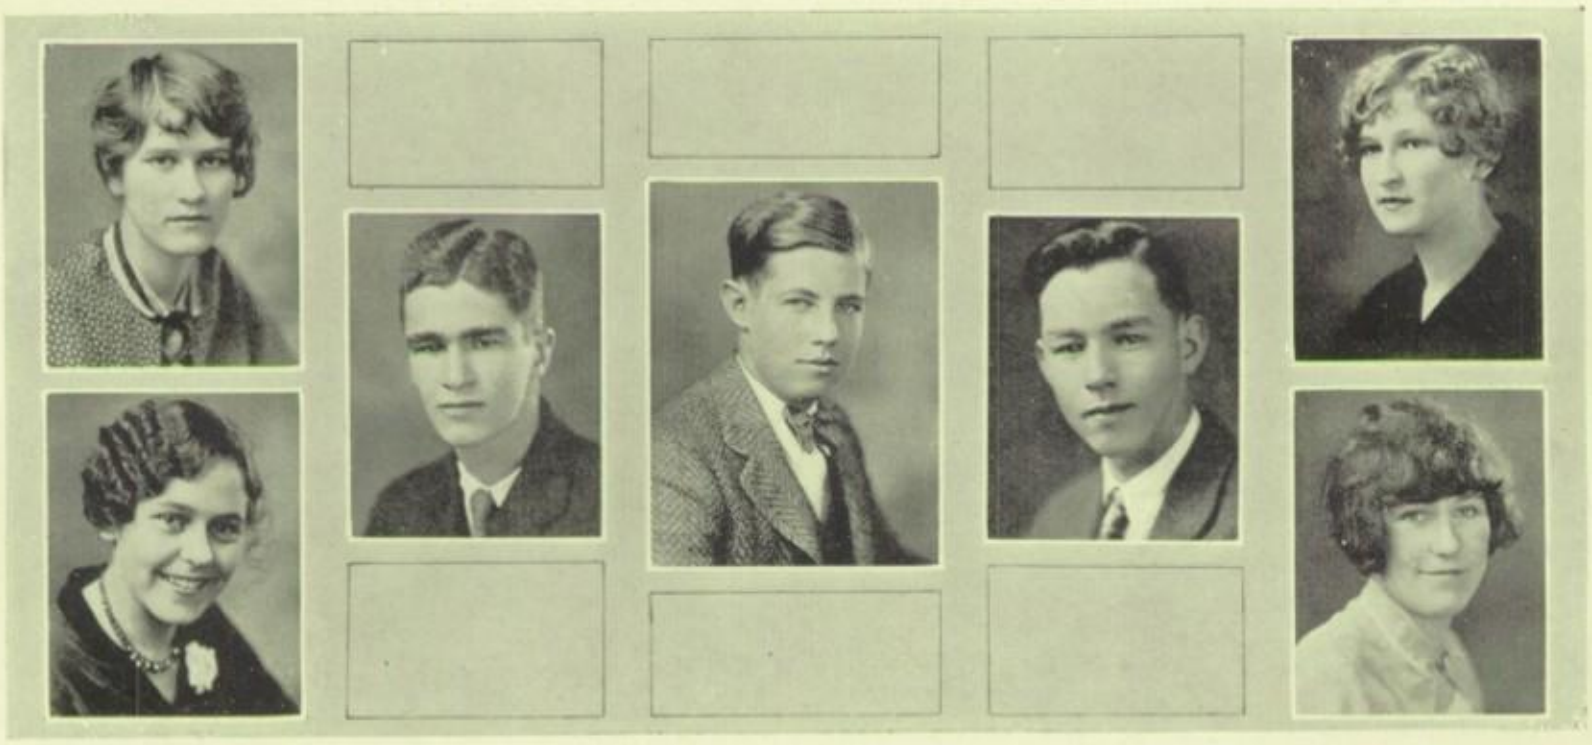
Membership in the National Honorary Society of Secondary Schools is awarded to students for proficiency in scholarship. The standards, of great scope, are fourfold: scholarship, leadership, character and service.

Since 1919, the Honor Society has been a national institution, and today is very popular in Unite dStates schools, 350 popular in United States Schools, 350 schools having charters. A common emblem is used throughout the U. S., and gold pins may be obtained by members.

Students of the Junior and Senior classes, who rank in the upper quarter of their classes in schoalrship, are eligible to membership. From this number, 15 per cent of the Seniors and 5 per cent of the Juniors, who rank highest in the four definite standards, may be elected. The principal, with four faculty members, make the selections.

This year seven members of the upper third of the Senior class were chosen — Philip Klaesson, Harriet Hale, Mary Bjoin, Frank Currier, Elsie Onsrud, Alf Christenson, Bjarne Romnes, and Olaf Roe. Another Senior member is Dorothy Anderson, who was a member from the previous year. Only one Junior was honored in membership — she is Josie Harried.

One of the chief motives of the organization, which is not prominent socially, is to encourage interest in school work. Each member of this society, so rewarded with this recognition, has every reason to be proud of his achievements and should earnestly endeavor to uphold its principles.



Lions Club Scholarship Awards

It has been the custom of the Lions Club of Stoughton to award medals each year to students who excell in each major study. Then a silver cup is awarded to the student ranking highest in all subjects.

This is deemed a great honor in scholarship and the Senior Class feels very proud of the high averages in their class. Philip Klaesson, with 81 grade points, had the distinct honor of receiving the cup. With this marvelous record, Philip can be given the distinction of being one of the best students our high school has ever produced.

The honor is determined by adding up the grade points of students in respective majors and that is divided by the number of semesters the major has been studied, to get the percentage. In regard to grade points, three points are given for every A; two for every B; and one for every C.

The students receiving the medals this year rank high in the scholarship of the class and are highly deserving of this honor. They are as follows: English, Mary Bjoin, 24 grade points, average 3%; Mathematics, Frank Currier, 13 grade points, average 2.167%; Language, Florence Rowe, 22 grade points, average 2.75%; Science, Dorothy Anderson, 18 grade points, average 3%; Social Science, Bjarne Romnes, 20 grade points, average 2.76%; Vocational, Martha Kvalheim, 17 grade points, average, 2.125%.

Since the awards are based on the four years' scholastic record, they create a stimulus for higher scholastic standards throughout the high school period and also create an ideal which is certainly worthwhile striving for.

GREGORY ANDERSON

The Yahara Staff of '29 conceived a plan that carried out the unique idea of choosing a Representative Student of Stoughton High School by allowing every subscriber of a Yahara one hundred votes as a contribution to the success of his or her candidate.

Each of the four classes chose a candidate, that qualified for the standards required by the Faculty and the Yahara executive committee, to represent them in the campaign. The campaign became a spirited affair with each class trying to win for their candidate the coveted honor. Not until the final minutes of voting was the decision, which brought a victory to the Juniors and Gregory Anderson, certain.

We wish to congratulate the Junior class upon their enthusiastic support of "Greg," a student that so well represents the worthy ideals of courage, honesty, determination, sportsmanship, and courtesy.

EDNA GANDER

Our school was singularly honored this year when one of its Freshmen, Edna Gander, brought a state prize to S. H. S. During the 1927-1928 school year, a contest was held to discover hidden talent in the art of free hand drawing, and to promote a greater appreciation of good art among school pupils. To carry out this motive the Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs held a Helen Farnsworth Mears contest for original free-hand drawing among all the eighth grade pupils of the state. Edna Gander's drawing, "The Garden," received first honors in the local, the district and finally from all the contestants entered in the state contest. The judges based their decision on its merits of originality in ideas and pleasing choice of colors and subject matter.

She was presented with a very beautiful bronze base relief, which she in turn kindly presented to our high school.

ZOE ANDERSON

There is one whom every member of '29 will never forget—one who will come to our minds when we think of high school days. She came to Stoughton High as a "Freshman" with the class now leaving. We feel proud that we have been fortuante in cherishing such a true and loyal friend. For what has Mrs. Anderson been but a friend—with always a cheerful "Good morning" and a comforting word for the late sleeper probably tardy for the third time. There was always sincere sympathy for a headache but occasionally a suspicious glance.

She is esteemed and respected by every single student, and it is through this realization that the Senior Class can in no way give her enough praise. We would like to show her in a very small way how much we, the class of '29, do appreciate her untiring and faithful work.

An auntie to one of our flock, she is as much to all.

FLORENCE DONAHUE

To be the Senior advisor is not the easiest of tasks. There are many duties, many bothersome ones, that she must perform. We feel grateful to our efficient helper, Mrs. Donahue. She always is willing at any time to do her utmost for us—not only as a class but as individuals. Even Pat doesn't require her personal attention all of the time. She deserves ample credit when she condescends to help individually any careless or unfortunate Senior who needs her advice, especially when she could be passing happy and blissful hours with Pat. She has initiative in abundance. Once in a while when somebody under her guidance fails to act according to duty, we see Mrs. Donahue coming down the main room aisle to "jack him up." We, the "twenty-niners," can only say that we wish her continued years of happiness and really want to thank her for all her "love" and consideration for our meek selves.

Coach—Mr. Andersen

Debating is one of the activities in our school which at the present has brought out only a minor interest among the students, but which is slowly but surely finding its due rank as an educational feature. Unlike other organizations it develops primarily alertness of the mind, self confidence and bearing, and ability to see great problems through the impartial public eye.

The question for debate was: "Resolved, That the Direct Primary System for Nominating United States Senators, Representatives, and State Officials Should Be Abolished in the State of Wisconsin." The negative was upheld by Frederick Henderson, Boris Schuster, and Katherine Halverson. The affirmative was upheld by Lillian Kvanvik, Mildred Onsrud and George Schuster. Muriel Larson and Virgie Walling acted very creditably as alternates.

Our debating squads were under the capable and patient coaching of Mr. Anderson. It was through his efforts that we were able to have such a successful season.

The results of the debates were:

Declamatory—Oratory

The annual interclass oratorical and declamatory contest was held on April 19th, in the High School auditorium.

By the decision of the Student Council the decorations were eliminated. The Freshmen, arrayed with caps of green and white, led the procession. The Sophomores and Juniors followed taking their respective places. The entrance of Seniors was made effective by marching up and down the aisles to the tune of the "Alma Mater."

Mr. Falk gave an explanation of the program for the evening, and everything was ready for the orations. George Schuster, representing the Junior class, began the orations with his selection, "The Toll of Industry." The Sophomore contestant, Frederick Henderson, orated "The Permanent Court of International Justice." The Freshmen and Seniors failed to be represented in the orations.

The display of pep followed; the Seniors started in a very sophisticated manner, but the Freshmen wound up with husky voices and a genuine pep stampede.

Constance Olson, Junior, opened the declamations with "The Valiant." The Senior declaimer, Alderine Dersch, read "Possessing Prudence," and Jean Hedemark, Freshman, "The Princess and the Microbe." Catherine Halverson, Shophomore, concluded the declamations with "The Melting Pot."

In the elimination contest held two weeks previous, the Juniors acquired four points and the Freshmen and Sophomores each three. The first place in oratory was given to George Schuster and second to Frederick Henderson. In declamatory, Catherine Halverson received first place and Constance Olson second. The Senior class obtained five points for having the highest percentage of attendance, and the Freshmen accumulated five points for the best organized pep display.

The representative from the Knights of Pythias, Mr. Alvin Loverud, presented the trophy.

The winners, Catherine Halverson and George Schuster, represented Stoughton in the League Contest.

Miss Fannie Duncan served as the first school mistress in the little old schoolhouse on the west side of the river.

Junior Promenade

On April 26th, the Juniors and Seniors met at the Guard armory to indulge in the most unique affair held during the season.

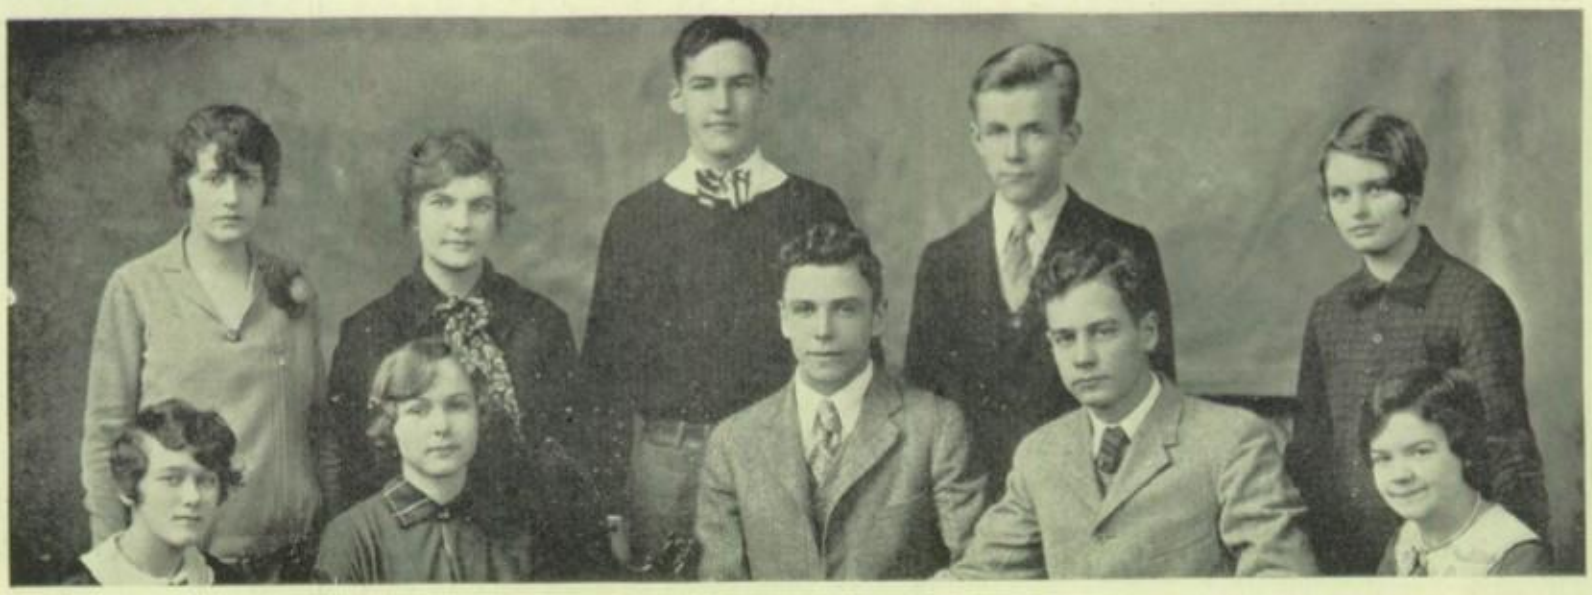
The ball was turned into a Mardi Gras for the evening. The setting was entirely modernistic. Bright colored banners and attractive draperies adorned the windows and the flower boxes suggested a very picturesque background. Balloons and serpentine were the main attractions, but the hats which were provided for the promenaders did away with the formality of the affair.

The fifteen waitresses, chosen from hte Freshmen and Sophomore classes, were attired in maid costumes, black dresses, white aprons, and caps. They, very pleasantly, performed their duty of serving the upper classmen.

At 6:30 o'clock one hundred and fifty students sat down with the faculty to partake of a most appetizing banquet served by the Hotel Kegonsa.

After the feast the Prom chairman, Peter Vea, issued a welcome to the Seniors and the faculty. He then called on the Senior president, Phillip Klaesson, who thanked the Juniors for the delightful time they were due to have, and also extended an invitation to the Juniors to attend the Senior Mixer to be held on May 29th. Superintendent Berg, Principal Falk, and the Junior class advisor, Miss Johnson, were called upon for short speeches. The traditional spoon and spade were presented to their worthy owners; Harriet Hale presented the spoon to Josie Harried and Phillip Klaesson the spade to Pete Vea. The Senior Class Will, read by Frank Currier, caused much disturbance among the "givers" and the "receivers." Olaf Roe took us ahead twenty-five years when he read the Senior Class Prophecy.

And now in one corner of the hall we notice a garden of flowers and colorful lights, and from there comes the refrains of the latest songs played by "The Land of Lakes" or Earl Jack's orchestra from Lake Geneva.



Junior Class Play

"THE YOUNGEST"

CHARACTERS

Richard Winslow.....Ingolf Turmo
Nancy Blake.....Elizabeth Long
Oliver Winslow.....John McKercher
Mark Winslow.....James Scott
Mrs. Winslow.....Constance Olson
Martha Winslow.....Dorothy Carpenter
Augusta Winslow Martin..Anna Harried
Alan Martin.....Peter Vea
Katie.....Ardith Dersch

The Junior Class play, "The Youngest," was presented December 14, 1928, with great success.

"The Youngest" is a typically American story of a wealthy New York family. The youngest son, Richard, a young man of literary inclination, has been tyrannized over by the other members of the family until he has developed a most serious case of "inferiority complex." Although his youngest sister and his brother-in-law invariably take his part in whatever quarrels arise, while his mother tries to maintain a neutral attitude, his brothers and his married sister abase him in everything he undertakes.

Oliver Winslow, the oldest and head of the family in the place of his deceased father, humiliates Richard in a thousand ways. Mrs. Winslow, still grieving over the death of her husband, willingly submits to Oliver's dictations. Martha Winslow sides with Richard as much as she can with her love for what's funny. Alan and Augusta Martin, recently married, intrude at this point, and cause much dissension with mother and brothers-in-law. Katie, the family maid, silently aids Richard in his distress.

Finally, just when Richard's affairs have reached the height of complication, a good angel, in the form of a lovely heroine, appears upon the scene and with the aid of Richard's friend, Alan, discovers a technicality in the will of Mr. Winslow which places great financial power in the hands of the youngest son. Armed with this weapon and with the knowledge that Nancy loves him and has confidence in him, Richard eclipses his domineering brothers and wins a much-deserved place of importance in the family circle.

Senior Class Play

"THE WHOLE TOWN'S TALKING"

"The Whole Town's Talking," a comedy presented by the Senior class on May 3rd, was a complete success in every respect.

Malcolm Stogdill, as Chester Binney, played his part perfectly as an absent-minded drudge, who has never given a thought to the opposite sex. He is the business partner of Henry Simmons, (Frank Currier) a quick and ready liar, always oozing with good humor. Mrs. Simmons (Dorothy Anderson) is vain and romantic but uncultured and is, of course, susceptible of flattery. Being of a nagging disposition she prides herself on being possessed of all the virtues of a lady. Ethel Simmons (Mary Bjoin) who likes everything that is different, has just returned from college and has brought with her Roger Shields (Clarence Nicholas) a foppish and snobbish type whose attentions to the ladies are so marked that he would be classed as a ladies' man. In an attempt to arouse his daughter's love for his partner, Henry Simmons tangles up affairs and in so doing causes Letty Lythe (Henrietta Onsrud) brilliant and worldly, who has all the poise and self-assurance of a professional star, and Donald Swift, (Boris Schuster) who is elemental enough to love prize-fighting and artistic enough to be a picture director, to come to his home. The taxi driver, (Olaf Roe) lacks the power of understanding and makes the situation worse instead of bettering it. Lila Wilson (Dorothy Hatzinger) and Sally Otis (Doris Larson) are of the usual small town flapper type. They are giddy and foolish, but both possess a superior social sense. Harriet Hale as Sadie Bloom is gaudy, coarse, and vulgar; her philosophy is to trust no one and to fight for what she gets.

The presence of Letty Lythe somewhat disrupts the peace of the Simmons home, and at this point Chester realizes that he must do big things to keep his heart's desire.

The climax of the play comes when, in a fight in the dark, Chester vanquishes his foes and claims his love.

Calendar

Sept. 4—Hello everybody! Now all together,—let's sing all six verses of "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here." Everybody happy? Yea! All ready for lots of hard work? You betcha! All right, let's go!

Sept. 5—My, we have the dearest little bunch of Freshmen. Honestly, they're the cutest things. Mr. Falk tells us to be kind to them and let them think they're human like the rest of us. It's hard to be so deceitful.

Sept. 6—Our football hopefuls are fast learning more about the gentle art. Mr. Wilke has six lettermen around which to build a team.

Sept. 7—Isn't it a shame one has to study when going to school? It's so bothersome when one has other things he'd much rather do. Yes, but gee, aren't you glad it's Friday?

Sept. 10—Olaf Roe tries to attract attention by falling out of his seat in third hour English class.

Sept. 11—"Fat" Olson falls down stairs and dislocates his shoulder. Start looking for a new center, Mr. Wilke.

Sept. 12—Boris Schuster, our colorful edition from Madison Central, squelches Frank Currier in Am. Hist. class. It seems Frank interrupted him when he was in one of his bursts of oratory.

Sept. 13—Girl Reserves go on a picnic down in Aaker's Woods. Two little Frosh get lost in the basement. Mr. Hill found them asleep in the cloak room this morning. First football scrimmage today.

Sept. 14.—We are just beginning to discover that we have several new girls in high school this fall. One of them seems to have her eye on Phil Klaesson. Confidentially, we think it's Phil's dimples that captivated her.

Sept. 17—Malcolm and Mary are both absent this morning. We saw that lovely, yellow moon last night, too.

Sept. 18—Mr. Berg peeked his head around the assembly room door in the first hour Study Hall. Immediately "the silence 'ung that 'eavy you was 'arf afraid to speak." Glen Skau ran and jumped in the waste-basket.

Sept. 19—We hear unearthly groans from the music room today. Oh fiddlesticks! I guess it was only the band boys.

Sept. 20—The prodigal son returns: George Ives resumes his studies in S. H. S.

Sept. 21—Miss Johnson and Mr. Wilke attend Badger Theater. Oh thrills! "Joe Onsrud recited in History class today. I guess it's just the weather.

Sept. 24—Blue Monday and gloom.

Sept. 25—Mary Bjoin has the measles. We bet she'll have a scratching good time. Right now, we're wondering about Malcolm?

Sept. 26—Miss Perham pays us a call. She played "Purple & White" for the assembly. They responded—and how!

Sept. 27—"Fat" Chase comes out for football. Whoa, Edgerton! We play the opener with Lake Mills Saturday.

Calendar

Sept. 28—Ingolf Turmo and James Scott recite standing up all day today. Formula for such results—Hi-Y invitation: 1 oak paddle; Currier & Gar Thorpe.

Oct. 1—Our study vikings convince Lake Mills that Leif Erickson discovered America. Their gridders swallowed a 13-6 lacing. Now for Fort!

Oct. 2—Donald Johnson with his two broken ribs gives us the impression of a dying duck in a thunderstorm. I'll bet he's a dead ringer for the guy that plugged Dan McGrew.

Oct. 3—Buy your Yahara now! Alf & "Rummy" are certainly shouting that from the housetops.

Oct. 4—I'll bet Paul Skinner wishes he sat in the Junior section. He wouldn't have to look over so many heads to find a certain rosy-cheeked little girl who is always ready with a sweet smile for him. Just between us two, he has the name "Elizabeth" written eleven times on his study hall desk.

Oct. 5—Thirty six people tardy this morning. "Ain't it good?" Mary Hale is just counting the days until we can start school at 8:30. Tough luck, Mary, you have so far to go, too.

Oct. 8—Fort 13—Stoton 6. Stop! That'll be all today.

Oct. 9—Tee, hee, hee, Mr. Voyce has got a gurl. Shame on Mr. Voyce. Takes her out in his new Dodge Sedan, too. Hangs around on Page St. 'till after eleven, too. Ha, ha, Mr. Voyce.

Oct. 10—"Silence is golden." If you don't believe it, ask "Clumps" Yttre. If you don't get a satisfactory answer from him, ask the Schuster boys or Martha Kvalheim.

Oct. 11—Katherine Halvorson has a new pair of glasses. Stunning, aren't they? Orlin Ausse wants a pair now.

Oct. 12—Four hundred and thirty-six years ago today Christopher J. Columbus discovered America—or was it Uncle Leif?

Oct. 15—We knock off our first league game with University High, 13-6. Whoopee! Nice work, Greg.

Oct. 16—Alice Ballenger causes quite a stir when she walks in on Mr. Falk's group of Senior boys. She wasn't embarrassed either.

Oct. 17—We take our report cards home to papa and mamma. Austin Holtan gives an account of an interesting session in the wood shed with papa. Do we love our teachers?—Sure!

Oct. 18—Muriel Larson made herself conspicuous this morning about ten o'clock. She left the assembly room quite unexpectedly.

Oct. 19—Our prettiest girls "get hot" in the choruses of the Legion Play. It's a dead cinch that the outfit Harriet Hale had on wasn't meant to be worn by her.

Oct. 22—Our brave gridders return home from Jefferson on the long end of a 19-6 score. Just the same, Turmo is sporting a slick pair of crutches.

Oct. 23—Greg Anderson rolls in at 9:27 this morning. This eight o'clock schedule doesn't bother him a bit.

Calendar

Oct. 24—Greg is late again. He's consistent, anyway.

Oct. 25—Ruby and Mayre escorted Roe home from school this noon. Such popularity must be deserved.

Oct. 26—Our high school wits adorn the black-boards with clever little gems and side-busting quips.

Oct. 29—Mr. Falk spends the second hour frowning and erasing the boards. Evidently the jokers got personal. Stoton 7, Monroe 7. No hard feelings.

Oct. 30—Ralph Atkinson buys his jack o'lantern today. He says it's a dandy. He said he was going to have three bars of soap for tomorrow night, too.

Oct. 31—Chet Sundby and Mary Hermanson go tick-tacking together. Beatrice Jensen wanted to go, but they wouldn't take her.

Nov. 1—Mr. Hill has two mighty fine assistants in McKercher and Johnson. Before they get through they will be artists with the push broom and wash rag.

Nov. 2—Wilbur Keegan is eligible for his first shave any time now. He has some of the cutest long red hairs on his chin, just like threads of gold. Just the same if he doesn't cut them off, there's a movement on foot in the Senior class that will.

Nov. 5—Harold Christenson is talking with a distinct southern drawl today. He saw the Alabama game Saturday. He says he can't overcome it.

Nov. 6—Milnor Lowry spends the afternoon in the Music Room crying. No foolin', he did. He stated that Roberta has spurned his love. We suggest that he shave his beard or eat ashes.

Nov. 7—Our beloved instructors hie away to the Cream City this afternoon to get some "hot tips" on the teaching game. It is quite probable that the student body will hibernate until Monday morning. James McCarthy reported that he had not been called in the office yet this week. "Slap the block, Jimmie."

Nov. 12—Armistice Day, war is resumed. Our warriors tangle with Edgerton. Must I go further? I think Edgerton won. Anyway, it is rumored that Gar Thorpe and a couple of his pals are contemplating a rush trip to the South Pole.

Nov. 13—A female doctor with a "Yankee" brogue tells us what to eat and why. Pass the spinach, please.

Nov. 14—First Junior Class play rehearsal tonite. Battling Turmo and Elizabeth Long of the rosy cheeks are the leads. Skyrocket for P. Skinner.

Nov. 15—Mr. Falk certainly has a terrible time getting the front seats filled up in our singing periods. A fire hose might help.

Nov. 16—Rev. Aldrich of the Universalist Church speaks to us. He tells us to check war off the list as a favorite pastime. Basketball candidates get ther first call.

Nov. 19—Martha Kvalheim says we go to Heaven when we die—if we're good. I'll bet she hopes she won't be deaf and dumb when she dies. St. Peter would never get the dope on us all otherwise.

Nov. 20—There seemed to be a discussion in fourth hour study hall today as to wether or not the window should be open. Miss Ritzman won the argument. She doesn't lose many.

Calendar

Nov. 21—No singing today. The boys just wouldn't mind Mr. Falk and go down and sit in the front seats.

Nov. 22—"Hansey" Gjestson is all basketball these days.

Nov. 23—Dorothy Hatzinger seemed to have some difficulty with one of the instructors today. We'll have the dope later.

Nov. 26—We get another health talk today. We are compared to white mice—complimentary, hey? Miss Hulsether said she like the old, dirty, gray rats better.

Nov. 27—Report Cards again. Not a brain cell working.

Nov. 28—B. Schuster comes to the fore again. He's sporting a brand new Mussolinin haircut today. No foolin', the kid's smooth. We slip on the feed bag heavy tomorrow and then remain idle until Monday.

Dec. 3—We stagger to school this morning with empty heads and full stomachs. Who cares? Hurrah for Al Smith!

Dec. 4—"Tessa" Halvorson has started to play pool, and boy! how he does call his shots.

Dec. 5—Miss Johnson says not to go through life arguing technicalities. She ought to write books.

Dec. 6—Clarence Yttre informs Miss Ritzman's Senior English Class that true love dies after two or three years of married life. That's deucedly interesting. We are wondering if he's speaking from personal experience or if he's been reading the life story of Peggy Hopkins Joyce.

Dec. 7—Madison Presbyterians take us through on the hardwood 24-12. Nothing to write home about, hey?

Dec. 10—Chief Red Fox, a full-blooded Sioux Indian, dances and squeals for us. Anyone who says Sitting Bull was a chief is crazy; he was a medicine man of the first water and we don't mean perhaps. Also we learn that Richard Dix is not Richard Dix. Write your own ticket.

Dec. 11—Stogdill and Currier both need haircuts. They are each going to buy themselves one this afternoon and they are contemplating heavily on taking Phil Klaesson along with them. Phil says he's going to ask for a violin for Christmas so he won't have to get any more of those pesky haircuts.

Dec. 12—Edgewood Catholics nip our basketball hopefuls 13-11. One big lusty cheer for the Irish! Alf Christenson is looking for some one who is busier than he is these days; a five-spot to anyone who can prove he is.

Dec. 13—Mr. Anderson gets paddled at Hi-Y meeting. The fellows demand absolute punctuality. Forty-six pupils absent today. Everybody's got "it."

Dec. 14—Our beloved Juniors display unusual dramatic ability in their presentation of "The Youngest." Ingolf says Jack Barrymore had better watch his laurels.

Dec. 18—Do your Christmas shopping early! Arvin Quam says he thinks this Santa Claus business is kind of fishy, but he is going to hang up his stocking Christmas Eve regardless. That boy is nobody's fool.

Dec. 19—This week seems deucedly long, hey?

Calendar

Dec. 20—We're still wondering if Phil is going to get that violin.

Dec. 21—Toodle, oo! See you next year. P. H. F. hopes we have a merry Christmas 'n'everything.

Jan. 7—Good morning, everyone. We are all in no mood to talk so let's be quiet.

Jan. 8—Phil got the violin.

Jan! 9—Ruby and Mayre are just rounding into shape after a two weeks' sojourn in the whereabouts of Stoughton and Edgerton. Mayre says Edgerton is the Palm Beach of the North.

Jan. 10—Mr. Berg was seen running.

Jan. 11—The basketball team loses a thriller to University High in overtime period.

Jan. 14—Frederick Henderson has lost his xylophone. On the Q. T. folks, we think Mr. Voyce has it. It so happens that a Central Grade teacher just adores xylophone music.

Jan. 14—Ray Myrick & Co. trounce Evansville 23-13.

Jan. 16—This is the last day of grace before "Exams."

Jan. 17—Yes, we're taking "them."

Jan. 18—Ditto—"In God we trust."

Jan. 21—The startling discovery of about 400, no we'll say 300 vacuums was made, in the heads of local high school students. Why, oh why were we born with good looks instead of brains?

Jan. 22—James Scott fell over the "ragged edge"—for the moment anyway. Result — basketball team takes a bump.

Jan. 23—It is reported that girls' interclass basketball; Juniors vs. Seniors, waxed warm last night. Bertha Aslackson actually got tough and resorted to strong words and other cutting remarks.

Jan. 24—Alderine Dersch rolled gracefully down one flight of stairs today. She had just had her hair marcelled too. She was really quite abashed.

Jan. 25—Coach Abenroth of Fort came over with the usual chip on his shoulder and instructed his boys to wallop Stoton. They did—15 6. Help! Help!

Jan. 28—Hi-Y loses a member.

Jan. 29—Stogdill has his Yahara picture taken. Better late than never.

Jan. 30—The guy that's been looking for an old-fashioned winter certainly should be satisfied. He's probably the same wise boy that likes to get up in the morning.

Jan. 31—Don Johnson takes over duties as fifth hour study hall teacher. More power to you, m'lad. Undoubtedly he'll now show off to better advantage for a certain little Freshman girl?

Feb. 1—Joe and Dorothy play "Baker's Man" in Physics class. Shades of Oscar Jensen.

Feb. 2—Garfield says he often wonders if it could be possible that this old world contains another girl just like Florence. Impossible! Gar, impossible!

Feb. 3—Fort takes our measure once again, 25-12.

Feb. 4—Matt Gregerson and his gang of Senior "All Stars" are moulding a basketball team together. We, of course, have high hopes.

Feb. 5—Merle Uglum certainly sports a pair of sideburns that talk right out loud. More power to you, son.

Feb. 6—There is going to be lots of water when all this snow melts.

Calendar

Feb. 9—O. Roe comes to school wearing a gambler's hat. The question is: Does he shoot from the hip. One thing that is certain, his voice is changing.

Feb. 10—The boys again come in second. Edgerton 17, Stoton 15.

Feb. 11—Vic Falk owes Edgerton Athletic Association, $3.42.

Feb. 12—Lincoln's Birthday. Orchestra and F. Currier perform. Nine rahs for "Honest Abe."

Feb. 13—Mr. M. P. Anderson, our collegiate Math. instructor, was seen loaded down with an iron hat and flesh colored gaiters.

Feb. 14—Teachers' Convention at Madison.

Feb. 15—Teachers' Convention at the Capitol City.

Feb. 18—We can beat Evansville if no one else. Stoton 18, Evansville 8.

Feb. 19—Miss Ritzman "faw down, go boom." It would be fun to have a slow motion of that.

Feb. 20—Uncle "Hans" and the Edgerton basket loopers trounce us poor Norwegians to a fare-thee well. I forget the score.

Feb. 21—The Juniors are worrying about Prom. Maybe they can't have it. Take it from me, the Seniors are worrying, too.

Feb. 22—Ben E. Wait eulogizes very ably George Washington, father of our country and cherry tree chopper extraordinary.

Feb. 24—Sweitzers give us another walloping, 16-13.

Feb. 25—The boys are getting their invites to the Philo banquet already. The woman pays and pays and pays!

Feb. 26—Oratory and Declamatory tryouts. Senior boys have no representative.

Feb. 27—Tomororw will be the last day of the month.

Feb. 28—Sure enough, no more days in February.

March 1—March comes in like Evelyn Orvold doing the 440. We take second beating from Monroe.

March 4—We were without a president for ten minutes today. It took ten minutes for "Cal" to go out and "Herb" to come in. Another minute and the country would have gone to smash.

March 5—Clarence Yttre says the thought of women tickles his sense of humor.

March 6—The Glee Club play is getting under way. Harold Halvorson spit in the waste basket twice today.

March 7—Is anyone observing Lent?

March 8—Well, this ends another week. We'll be back Monday, though.

March 11—We don't go to the tournament at Whitewater.

March 12—Whoopee! The snow is melting—and how!

March 13—James Scott comes to school with his sleeves rolled up. Oh, girls, do you notice his powerful arm?

March 14—Who's got my rubbers? Hey you, strip yourself of them overshoes, them's mine.

March 15—Let's give a drowsy hoo-rah for Spring fever.

March 18—Philo has banquet. We go to the city 'n'everything.

March 19—Senior Class Play tryouts. Our Barrymores and Garbos come to light.

March 20—"Colonel" Ives lost his brief case. No reward offered.

March 21—Agent from the Salvation Army gives us the low down on the good work the Army lads and lassies are performing.

March 22—Junior and Senior girls' basketball teams are tied for the cup. They battle for blood next week.

March 25—Student Council puts on "Dress-Parade" at the Badger. Ruby Malecke and Frederick Henderson perform. They work well together.

March 26—"Rummy" and Alf go to Rockford and Chicago in interests of Yahara. Dollar to a fried cake that Rummy comes back wearing a pot hat and smoking cubebs.

March 28—School Board tells us to go home and stay home until after Easter. Let's pray for snow so we won't have to rake the lawn.

April 8—Well, the Seniors are starting the last lap now before Commencement. The question is, will they all finish strong?

April 9—Mr. Wilke is mobilizing his huskies for spring football. "Kelly" Quam says he has the fullback job on ice.

April 10—Senior Class Play cast holds first rehearsal.

April 11—Ruby and Mayre skip school and go to Edgerton. It is rumored that Doris Larson went along as chaperone.

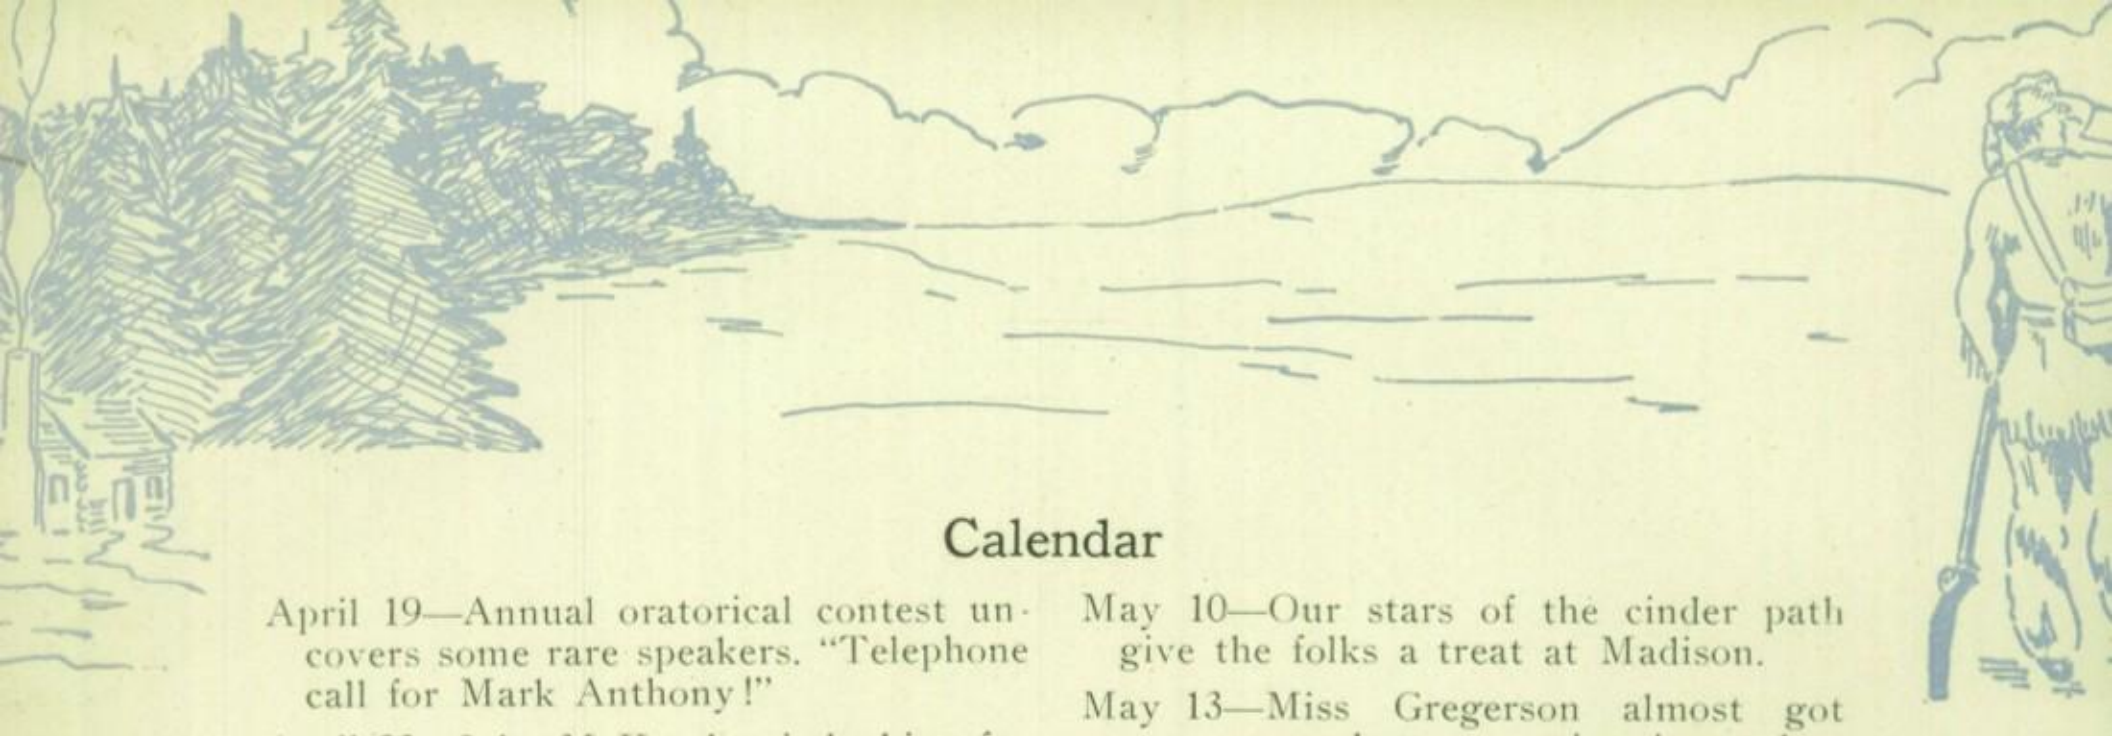
April 12—The Exclusive Dancing Club of Stoughton High School had a heavy session last eve. About quarter to ten, James Scott and Oscar Christenson went out and "killed" a bottle of strawberry pop.

April 15—Edward Leek learns how to spit through his teeth. As soon as he learns how to snap his gum, he is going to ask Ariel Criddle for a date.

April 16—We get the inside information on University Extension courses. Edwin Moe plans on taking a correspondence course in wrestling.

April 17—Harold Christenson is sporting a brand new, big, fat "S." He looks like four million dollars.

April 18—Juniors hold class meeting to elect candidates for scholastic spoon and spade.



Calendar

April 19—Annual oratorical contest uncovers some rare speakers. "Telephone call for Mark Anthony!"

April 22—John McKercher is looking for words to rhyme with Ruth. We suggest: booth, sleuth, youth and tooth.

April 23—What have you?

April 24—Mrs. Fredenberg leaves us. Good bye and lots of luck. (Do we dare to call her Ethel?)

April 25—Everyone is all excited about tomorrow night. Dorothy Anderson was heard to remark: "Oh, dear, I'm all a'flutter."

April 26—Then came the dawn — The Junior Promenade, extraordinary passes all expectations. Oh, girls, weren't you just actually mortified to see the drummer wink at Constance Olson?

April 29—Forty absent and twenty-six tardy this morning. I guess the week-end was too much for us.

April 30—Mr. Homme sold the gymnasium and the water tower to Mervin Burtness this morning for a dime.

May 1—Mr. Wilke and Miss Johnson go May basketing.

May 2—Ralph Atkinson inquires as to when the Junior Prom is coming off. Wonder if he knows school has started.

May 3—Senior class presents "The Whole Town's Talking."

May 6—Harriet Larson has the "squeak" taken out of her shoes. Isn't this weather elegant?

May 7—We learn that all of our august faculty will return next fall. We also learn that nineteen senior boys will be back. A rather unusual state of affairs to say the least.

May 8—Harold Gerard is contemplating buying a pair of plus-six knickers. He says these warm days have awakened the golf bug in him.

May 9—I wonder who will be exempt from the finals. I know nineteen senior boys who don't care.

May 10—Our stars of the cinder path give the folks a treat at Madison.

May 13—Miss Gregerson almost got nerve enough to go swimming today. Boy, you should see her do the crawl. We've seen her before and take it from me, she's a "crawler" of the first magnitude.

May 14—Our fashion plates take the foreground. Some of these new spring outfits would put your eye out.

May 15—Our beloved instructors certainly love to fire the old work at us this last six weeks. Harriet Hale says she hasn't come up for air in three weeks.

May 16—Malcolm and Mary again enjoy a big yellow moon.

May 17—State track meet. Oh! for a few "Charley" Paddocks.

May 20—The Seniors are boasting that their Mixer will be the "best ever."

May 21—Yes, we're reviewing. Wonder who'll be exempt?

May 22—Harold Christenson wishes he had studied when he was a Freshman. As it is, he will be among the missing at Commencement.

May 23—Some of the sentimental Seniors are "boo-hooing" already because they won't be here next year.

May 24—Woof, it's hot. Teacher, kin I git a drink?

May 26—Baccalaureate. More sobs.

May 27—Exams! We repeat it, gentlemen, Examinations.

May 28—Today is an agonizing repetition of yesterday.

May 29—Senior Mixer. Baby, get hot!

May 30—Memorial Day.

May 31—We pass through the portals of dear old S. H. S. for the last time. Oh, but most of us will be back next year. Good bye, Seniors, good luck! Hey, slip me that "sheepskin."

Purple and White

Then hurrah for the Purple and White
We will stand by our colors forever.
We wil back them with all our might,
We will conquer all for them.
They never shall suffer defeat
When upheld by our loyal endeavor
Our colors shall never be beat.
Purple and White, for them we'll fight
They'll win forever.
